

HARBOR BONDS VICTORY WILL BE CELEBRATED

Representative men and women of Orange county will meet in Newport Beach Thursday night as a tribute to that community for the progressive spirit evidenced by the almost unanimous voting of $500,000, last Monday, for improvement of the harbor entrance.

The group will gather in the harbor city for the regular monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county and the dinner and business session will be held in the clubhouse of the Newport Harbor Yacht club, beginning at 6:30.

According to George Raymer, secretary, R. C. Hannah, of the highway bulb gardens, will make a 10-minute talk on the bulb industry in Orange county.

"Fifty million dollars worth of bulbs are sold in America each year and now that Uncle Sam has prohibited Holland bulbs from coming into this country it is evident that there will be a rapid development in this industry," Raymer said.

Lew H. Wallace, who has been fighting for harbor improvement for 20 years, will be chairman of the meeting. Raymer says that it will be the purpose of the delegates and others attending the meeting to join in rousing activities celebrating the event of the city voting $500,000 bonds to build the east and west jetties.

"What the county of Orange didn't do, the city of Newport Beach will do alone," commented the secretary.

The White House spokesman often speaks, but, like his friend, Calvin Coolidge, he seldom laughs. An exception came the other day when the president—beg pardon, we mean the spokesman—was talking to the press about the new immigration rules. He referred to the "origins provision" and then remarked that there was another word that went with origins—what was it?

"National!" chorused 30 or 40 correspondents as one man and the spokesman actually laughed out loud. "Class is perfect," said he, still smiling.

The army, which has been kicking about its rations, may yet be put on an acorn diet. Gen. Herbert M. Lord, director of the budget and head of the Coolidge economy program, is so economical that he personally often has acorns only for lunch.

Lord noticed squirrels eating them in a park and now, regardless of the squirrels, he picks them up from under oak trees, carries them in his pockets and fills his desk drawers with them. He has been known to depend on them when too busy to leave for a more formal meal.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—What a lovely target Capitol Hill is for smash notes!

And yet, how totally neglected! Senators and congressmen seem to be immune from that sort of thing. Anyway, none of them will admit receiving anything sweeter than an occasional letter of thanks from a constituent.

Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, is the handsomest man in congress. If the girls wrote to anyone, it would be Henrik. And he goes along, year in and year out, totally ignored by the mushy element, despite the fact that he is a better movie type than many favorite stars.

The secretary to the best-looking man in congress today was secretary to the homeliest man in congress 25 years ago. The secretary is Henry T. Ronning, and the homeliest congressman was Congressman Frank M. Eddy, of Glenwood. Shipstead, Eddy and Ronning all come from Glenwood.

Eddy, who still is living, made no attempt to dodge the distinction. In fact, he gloried in it. He was even humbler than Shipstead is good-looking.

"How homely was Eddy, anyway?" one demands of Ronning.

"Haw-haw-haw!" roars Ronning, as if words failed him.

One hears that no one has since equaled Eddy's total lack of beauty.

Among Eddy's successors have been Andrew J. Volstead and the Rev. O. J. Kvale, incumbent. It should be pointed out here, in case the chance never again arises, that you don't pronounce Kvale's name like "kale," the vegetable, with a "v" in it. The correct pronunciation is "Kwawley," as per the Norwegian.

Pennsylvania where one hears that graft and corruption figure in primaries and elections, also used to send clergymen to congress, but it was a long time ago. Once upon a time the state of William S. Vare and David A. Reed elected one minister to every four congressmen. Now has 36 congressmen and not a minister among 'em.

To the very congress come the brothers Muhlenberg, two Pennsylvania preachers, and one became the first speaker of the house. The heaven of piety in the Pennsylvania

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—There's red tape involving the return of American girls who marry foreigners and go abroad. Maria Carall, born in Tampa, went to Spain last spring with her husband, a Spaniard, and five children. Coming back her husband was permitted to land at once. He had obtained a return permit before leaving this country; she had not. Finally she was admitted temporarily pending a decision.

FORD and Edison both say that they will vote for President Coolidge if he is a candidate for re-election.

Why do these men of genius thus favor a man who is not a genius, for the greatest job on earth? Obviously, because they recognize in Mr. Coolidge something quite as essential as genius, and that is fitness. The question is not how "big" a man is, but how well he can do the work.

PRESIDENT Coolidge, to be sure, is far from the "scared little man" the cynics pretend. He has a very good mind, and remarkable poise and judgment. By any test but the highest, he ranks high. He could not have created Ford's business nor vented Edison's flights into the unknown, and he lacks Roosevelt's capacity to drive small men to great endeavor. What he could do himself has been done well; what he had to do through others has been done variously. If anybody ran from Bolshevik bugaboos, it was Kellogg, who already had a national reputation as a "big" man before Coolidge was known outside of Northampton. If anybody was stimulated by the alarmists' admiring, it was the "big" Senators. If President Coolidge is not a great man, the test of results also demonstrates that he is nearer to it than some "bigger" men.

THE main thing that confirms President Coolidge in the commendation of Ford and Edison is that he is a fit man. He does the job. Other things might require other fitness. Lincoln, the one supreme genius in our list of presidents, belongs not merely to his own great time, but to the ages. Roosevelt shook the nation from lethargy; Wilson pointed it a vision to which it has not yet attained. Coolidge's is the homeliest task of a homeliest time. It was to get the nation on the track and under way. So long as that is the job, Coolidge is the man for it. The only question is whether the time for a different job begins two or six years from now.

THE "talkies" are already an accomplished fact. Not as a laboratory curiosity, but as a practical commercial proposition, pictures which speak as well as move are now feasible and will soon be common.

Only two things remain to make the pictures as vivid as the reality—depth and color. Both of these have been achieved, on an experimental scale. Pictures can be taken and projected in the exact colors of the original scenes; the only obstacle is the cost. And a stereoscopic device has been tried which shows the pictures standing out in solid form, instead of as flat shadows. When these two pass from the laboratory to the practical factory, there will be no further to go. Our eyes shall see and our ears shall hear the very substance of things remote, indistinguishable from actuality. All times and all places will live for us, and the world will be shrunk to a screen.

WILL this be the end of a new beginning of the art? That depends. The appeal of the dramatic to the imagination is that it is used to show us things which we should conceive in our souls, but which we should feel only a faint suggestion of. The death of Desdemona will mean no more to the spectator than any chance corpse does to a morgue attendant. By seeing too much we shall perceive too little. Then the hunger of the imagination, if any is left, will have to be fed by some less realistic art. As photography drove painters to futurism, so the "talkies" may drive the drama to some weird symbolism. Or it may do the other thing. Shall we have Antigone, or Oedipus on the screen?

THE governors of the Smithsonian Institution have just held their first meeting in fifty years. And the chief thing they discovered is that they hold the next meeting after another fifty years, their job will be done. There will be no more worlds for museums to conquer. Civilized man will have eliminated nature from the earth. The primitive races of men will be extinct or civilized. The wild animals will be dead or domesticated. The only plants left will be crops or weeds. One more generation will see the end of the battle which has lasted since the beginning of time. If our successors are to see what nature was like, before man conquered it, or while he was still a part of it, we must gather the last specimens now. Unless the insects and the microbes conquer man first, man is on the point of conquering the rest of life. The whole earth will soon be as comfortable a place as the place in a city. We shall have to seek the museums, to rest our souls.

No Danger from Sacramento River

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21.—The Sacramento river was practically stationary, with a stage of 26 feet, here, today, and was carrying its waters without overflow or danger of broken levees along any of its reaches, according to N. R. Taylor, government meteorologist.

But little damage has been reported from flood waters along the Sacramento, Taylor said. There was a general rain last night, with snows in the High Sierras. Summit reported 114 inches of snow on the ground.

Kellogg Issues Statement To Justify Washington's Action in Latin Republic

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Diaz Nicaraguan government has requested the United States to enter into a form of military alliance with it, the United Press learned today. A note embodying the proposal is enroute to Washington from Managua.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—U. S. military occupation of Nicaragua will be practically completed today. Marines were to land at Corinto, to take up positions at Chinandega and Leon and along the Managua-Corinto railway, the state department announced.

The Liberal revolutionary army is reported menacing the railroad. The new military movement follows the steady American occupation during the last two months of Liberal territory, including the seven bordering ports of the eastern coast of the country, and establish a "state of siege" at Managua, the capital, and at other points. Kellogg issued a statement today, justifying the U. S. occupation of Nicaragua, and the seizure of property and to maintain connections between the American flag guard at Managua and the sea. This action has "the consent and approval of the Diaz Conservative government," he added.

American occupation of Managua was extended today from the U. S. legation to "The Loma," native fortress, dominating the capital, the state department announced.

Besides the U. S. detachment of 153 men at Managua, 373 were stationed at Chinandega and 470 at Leon, to guard the railway.

The new forces of bluejackets and marines were landed from the U. S. S. Milwaukee, Raleigh and Galveston at Corinto, by order of the state department.

Italy Turns Down Coolidge Proposal

ROME, Feb. 21.—Italy today declined President Coolidge's invitation for a conference to discuss further reduction of naval armaments. Italy's reply was delivered to American Ambassador Fletcher.

Mussolini's reply, it was stated authoritatively, remarked that naval defense was a question of life or death for Italy, rather than a military or political problem, and that Italy's geographical position in the Mediterranean spoke for itself more than any technical argument could.

Two Boys Drown Playing Pirate

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—An inquest into the deaths of two boys, who drowned when a raft on which they were playing pirate, tipped over in a brick yard pond, was scheduled to be held here today.

Bodies of the victims, Glen Stalder, 11, and Morris Carlisle, 8, were recovered from the pond, late yesterday, by police, who were summoned by a third youth, Charles Nordholm, 11.

INSULL DEFIES SENATORS IN BIG SLUSH FUND QUIZ

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Admitting he distributed $237,950 to virtually all factions in the Chicago primary campaign, Samuel Insull, multi-millionaire traction operator, told the senate elections committee today his conscience would not permit him to divulge names of those to whom he gave $40,000 of his political contributions.

Insull stood with his attorney, Daniel Schuyler, of Chicago, and refused to divulge this one transaction, although he revealed that he had spent some $65,000 in Chicago alone for the county tickets.

For this refusal, Insull and Schuyler are liable to be cited to the senate, and sent to jail for contempt of the committee.

Both, however, talked more freely than when they previously declined to testify and, with State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, of Chicago, who answered all questions, they revealed Insull's astounding financial operations in the Chicago campaign to an extent of $237,950.

HIGHEST COURT TO DECIDE FATE OF BEN LINDSEY

Rehearing Denied Denver Jurist by Colorado's Supreme Tribunal

(By United Press)
DENVER, Colo., Feb. 21.—The fate of juvenile judge Ben B. Lindsey, internationally famous jurist, will rest with the U. S. supreme court.

The Colorado supreme court today denied Lindsey a rehearing of the suit contesting his election, in 1924, through which the high court recently ordered him ousted.

Immediately after the ruling had been handed down, counsel for Lindsey asked for a stay of execution until the case could be appealed to the U. S. supreme court. This will be done immediately, they said.

Ordered to Pay Widow

The Colorado court, recently, in ordering the juvenile court jurist ousted, ruled that he must pay the widow of Royal Graham, who contested Lindsey's reelection in 1924, back salary.

Judge Lindsey filed a petition for a rehearing, charging that his case had not been properly heard in district court, where his election had been upheld. Lindsey claimed that District Judge Moore had not given him a chance to present his evidence refuting Graham's charges of fraud, on the ground that it was not necessary for him to reach a decision.

The brief, which accompanied Lindsey's petition for a rehearing from the supreme court's decision, argued that the high court had deprived him of his property without due process of law. The property, counsel explained, was the back salary he was ordered to pay Mrs. Graham.

Lindsey In Bitter Comment

"In view of the fact that I have been denied any right to swear a single witness in court or to present any defense whatever to the perjured testimony and crooked conspiracy of agents of the K. K. K. we feel we have been denied our rights of process of law and we shall fight on," Judge Lindsey said, in commenting on the decision.

"We have not been given our day in court and have never been given the right to an American citizen to present a defense.

WOMAN SEES BODY OF MATE WASH PAST HER IN RIVER; KEEPS 30-HOUR DEATH VIGIL

AN EPIC of Orange county's recent flood, in which the wife of a ranch caretaker was the heroine, even as death itself stared her in the face from the eyes of her drowned husband, was told today by County Coroner C. D. Brown, and Deputy Sheriffs Dan Adams and Clyde Flower, who returned the body of the drowned man, Theodore Tutt, to Santa Ana for burial.

COURT RENDERS SALT LAKE RAIL VALUE DECISION

Opinions Are Handed Down By Supreme Tribunal, After Recess

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Recessing after four weeks' recess, the U. S. supreme court today gave its decision on the famous railroad "valuation" case—the Los Angeles-Salt Lake railroad case. Justice Brandeis started reading the decision at 1:30 p. m.

"We believe the suit should have been dismissed," Brandeis said, indicating the court would not give a flat decision on the many billion-dollar valuations for rate-making purposes involved.

Brandeis' opinion stated that it was too early to determine the constitutional questions against the present valuation system, which places the roads' aggregate value at some $19,000,000,000.

Decision in Pottery Case
The supreme court today decided that conspiracy to get monopoly of an industry would constitute violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The decision was in the Trenton, N. J. pottery case, in which the circuit court of appeals had held that anti-trust law violation depended upon whether a jury determined that the prices charged as a result of such control were unreasonable and in restraint of trade. The high court today reversed the circuit court decision and affirmed the conviction.

Forty-three defendants were convicted of violating the Sherman act, including 20 individuals and 23 corporations, in a trial in New Jersey federal court. The Trenton potteries and 110 other New Jersey Sanitary pottery factories and other corporations in California, Illinois, Michigan, West Virginia, Indiana, Ohio, and Pennsylvania, were included. All of these companies were members of the "Sanitary Potters' association."

Widow in Death Vigil

Friday afternoon, Orr returned with the provisions. He found Mrs. Tutt, seated on the bank watching the body of her husband. She had been there for hours. Orr immediately took steps to rescue the body. He waded into the stream, to the little strip of land that held the corpse, and tying it to a sled, he managed, after a long time, to carry the body into the house.

After the rescue, Orr went to the home of George W. Harris from where the coroner was notified. Harris played no part in finding the body, as was reported to The Register Saturday. He was busy at the time removing marooned persons from the Trabuco canyon, he said.

Coroner Brown, with Officers Adams and Flowers, left here Friday night. They found roads washed out and almost impassable. After a long hike over roads that would not carry an automobile, they arrived at the Tutt home.

NORTHWEST CUT OFF BY HIGH WATERS

Through Trains Ordered Held in Portland, Due To South Oregon Floods

FIERCE STORM IN EAST

Lives of 25 Claimed on Atlantic Coast; Loss to Property Five Millions

(By United Press)
PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 21.—Isolation of the Pacific northwest from California was practically complete today, when the Southern Pacific railroad held all Southland trains in Portland.

Three through trains, scheduled to leave overnight and this morning, were ordered held here, pending word of flood conditions in the Willamette valley and southern Oregon.

About all that was known at railroad headquarters here was that it was impossible for a train to get through. Lack of means of communication added to the confusion and as a result what was termed as the "worst rail tieup in 30 years" existed.

Main Line Blocked

A slide at Ashland and 200 feet of submerged track near Medford, in southern Oregon, effectively blocked the main line. The Natron cutoff, the new Cascade line of the Southern Pacific, was blocked, but officials here do not yet know where.

The Shasta Limited, northbound from San Francisco, due in Portland Sunday, was still being held at Ashland. It probably will remain there until telegraphic communication is restored with southern Oregon.

All wires to the southern part of the state are down and no direct information from that region, which was the center of the storm area, has been received since Sunday afternoon, when the storm reached its height.

An attempt to get a telegram through to southern Oregon, via Salt Lake City, Utah, failed, as did all other attempts, to reach the stricken area by a roundabout route.

Extent of Washouts Unknown

In addition to the blocked and submerged track in the Ashland-Medford region, there are several washouts, but the seriousness could not be ascertained here today.

Property damage is known to be large, but the lack of communication prevented the making of estimates. No injuries or loss of life have been reported.

Even if the most favorable conditions are found to exist, at least 12 hours will be required to repair tracks and permit resumption of train operation, Southern Pacific officials said.

At Grant's Pass, in southern Oregon, five inches of rain had fallen in 48 hours and the Rogue river was reported rising at the rate of one foot an hour. The city was in darkness last night as power lines were torn down by the rush of water, which washed away bridges on the Redwood highway and carried away a railroad bridge across Applegate river.

HEAVY RAINS FALL IN NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21.—Northern California and Oregon today were bearing the brunt of a severe rain-storm, causing flood menace from scores of swollen rivers and streams and demoralization of rail traffic at many points.

INHERITS RICHES

Everett G. Trostel, 17, Santa Ana junior college student, who has inherited $60,000 under the will of his aunt, Josephine Litzaw.

SANTA ANA BOY GIVEN $60,000 BY AUNT'S WILL

Everett G. Trostel, 17-year-old junior college student, of 515 East Chestnut street, Santa Ana, today became one of the city's most envied young men.

A petition for probate of the will left by his late aunt, Josephine Litzaw, shows that the youth has come into a $60,000 estate, in the form of a trust fund that will pay him about $6000 a year, and that he is in line to ultimately inherit his aunt's entire fortune of $35,000.

Besides the $6,000 trust fund, he was bequeathed a share in oil property at Signal Hill, bringing him an annual income of $750. He also was willed a late-model automobile. He is to come into outright possession of the $60,000 trust fund at the age of 30. Meanwhile he gets the income from it.

The will further leaves property valued at $17,700 to Everett's mother, Mrs. Ada Trostel. Everett's grandmother, Mrs. Kate Lit-zaw, 79, of Santa Ana, was willed $7000 for her use until death, after which it goes to Everett. Another $5000 was left to John M. Litzaw, of Belvedere Gardens, an uncle of Everett.

The estate included real estate in Santa Ana, Compton, Long Beach, Signal Hill, Modjeska's Forest of Arden, and Corona del Mar, all of which was willed to Mrs. Trostel, with the exception of the Signal Hill property. The balance of the estate consists of mortgages, other securities and cash.

Franklin G. West, of Santa Ana, is attorney for the petitioner, Mrs. Trostel.

Hurls Charges at Mellon, 2 Oil Men

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, E. L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnates, own 82 per cent of the oil lands involved in the United States controversy with Mexico and the state department has notified all three not to comply with the Mexican oil laws, Walter Liggett, newspaperman, of Plymouth, Mass., charged today before a senate foreign relations subcommittee.

The present crisis in Mexico, he declared, has not grown out of Mexico's confiscation of lands owned by Americans, but out of efforts of Americans to force the government to a wholesale validation of concessions "fraudulently acquired."

250,000 Involved in Strike

It was estimated that a quarter of a million people were involved in the strike today, compared with about 40,000 Saturday noon, when the strike call became effective.

Business was stagnant today. That part of the populace not yet involved in the strike either walked or rode in Jimrikishas to work.

A drizzling rain added to the general depression. Reports from the war front, 50 miles south of Shanghai, indicated a lull, but it was believed to be only a calm before a mighty storm, which was expected to break when the Cantonese resume their march to Shanghai.

1300 STRIKERS ARE REPORTED BEHEADED

LONDON, Feb. 21.—Thirteen hundred strikers have been beheaded in Shanghai, the Shanghai correspondent of the Morning Post reported today.

The British compound at Yangtze Poo was attacked by a mob yesterday, which partially destroyed the stone fence around the compound and stoned troops. The troops did not retaliate and police dispersed the mob, the correspondent reported.

A Morning Post dispatch from Hankow said the situation at Ichang, in the province of Hupeh, was serious. The general strike there

STRIKERS LOSE HEADS

At Least 20 Decapitated In Shanghai; British Artillery Arrives in City

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—A Chinese raid on the American refugee vessel Imping, at Ichang, on the Yangtze river, was reported to the state department today by Consul General Lockhart.

Native participants in the general strike and anti-British boycott there, stripped the Imping of food because it was carrying British passengers.

This was the second attack in a few weeks on the Imping. Chinese fired on it and another vessel, February 4, while they were carrying refugees to Ichang.

No anti-foreign tendencies have developed in the Shanghai general strike, according to other department advisers.

"The Shanghai strike appears to be largely political, with a view to the early downfall of Sun Chuan-fang, who is 'defending' the city against the invading Cantonese armies," the report said.

"General Sun is expected at Shanghai from Nanking," take personal command of his forces concentrated at Sung Kiang."

Admiral Williams, commander-in-chief in Asiatic waters, reported to the navy this afternoon that the captains of the British vessels, Gnat and Cockchafer, had been slightly injured when strike pickets at Ichang attacked them. Several British sailors were pushed overboard, but an armed guard quickly restored order.

BRITISH ARTILLERY REACHES SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Feb. 21.—British artillery arrived at Shanghai today aboard the transport Bankura and the British force available for the defense of the international settlement from mob or other violence was raised to 6000 men. Simultaneously, four companies of Indian troops from the Punjab returned to Hongkong today.

Approximately 100,000 Chinese were on strike here today, but there had been no demonstrations up to 5:30 p. m., and the police minimized the danger to foreigners.

In various localities in the Chinese city, heads of decapitated labor agitators were impaled on spikes in view of passersby. Little groups of Chinese gathered around the ghastly exhibits, but there was no comment. Twenty decapitations were known to have taken place, although many more were reported.

It was estimated that the number of strikers represented one-sixth of the employees of this city. Only a few tram cars were on the streets today. These will stop running at nightfall.

A reign of terror existed in Shanghai today outside the international settlement.

Angered at the workers' demonstration over the victories of the Cantonese Nationalist forces, local Chinese police, aided by troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang, "Defender of Shanghai," beheaded 20 of the agitators, Chinese strike leaders as a warning to the sympathizers of the Cantonese.

In spite of the violent methods of the police, the general strike not only continued, but was growing, both in Shanghai and in other Chinese cities.

HIRAM SEEKS CLOTURE TO BLOCK BOULDER FILIBUSTER

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Facing a filibuster of opponents of the Boulder dam bill, Senator Johnson, Republican, California, announced late today that he will seek limitation of debate on the measure, in order to secure action.

He will begin the circulation of a cloture petition. Johnson announced this, after Senator Ashurst, Democrat, Arizona, leading opponent of the measure, had resorted to filibustering tactics. Ashurst took the floor after Johnson had concluded his speech today.

and was still on his feet late this afternoon.

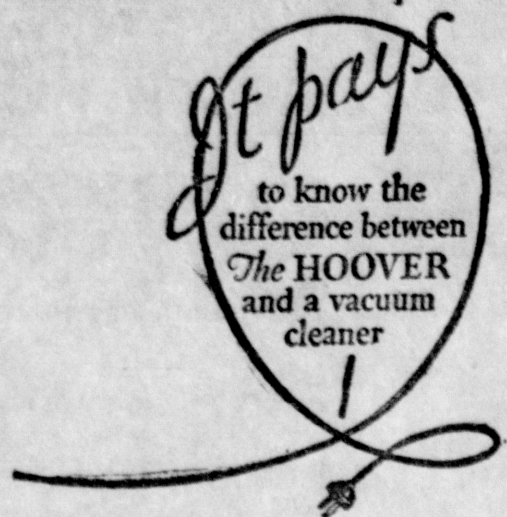

"There is no intention to take anything from Arizona in this bill," Johnson said. "States' rights are not involved. It is money."

Senator Ashurst, in opposition to the measure, declared California takes rights from his state under the Boulder dam bill that make it "worse than burglary."

Arizona cannot compromise, he said, when Senator Cope-land, Democrat, New York, asked if there were not some way for the two states to get together.

Alien Language Law Void

The Hawaiian foreign language school laws, designed to Americanize the polyglot younger generation of the island territory, were declared unconstitutional by the supreme court today.

The decisions of lower courts, holding the regulations imposed on the foreign language schools unconstitutional, in a suit brought by T. Tokushige and other Hawaiians, were affirmed.

Justice McReynolds announced the decision.

Under acts passed by the Hawaiian legislature in 1920, 1923 and 1925, the territorial department of public instruction required all teachers in foreign language schools to obtain permits. Requirements were set for teachers and proprietors of schools were required to make reports and pay fees.

Tokushige based his case on recent Oregon school case supreme court decision holding a private school regulation unconstitutional because it unreasonably interfered with the rights of the parents to direct the education of their children. He also cited the famous Nebraska and Iowa cases, in which regulation of private schools was held illegal.

Gov. Wallace R. Farrington and other officials named in the injunction, obtained by Tokushige in lower courts, restraining enforcement of the laws, replied by defending the laws as "regulatory" not "prohibitive," and therefore not within the territory's constitutional police power, he argued.

Farrington also attacked the decision of the lower courts holding the educational statutes unconstitutional. He held that only the clauses specifically held unconstitutional, if any, should be invalidated.

The supreme court today dismissed the test case brought by railroads in an attempt to overturn the present system of valuation for rate-making purposes used by the Interstate Commerce commission.

"There is no basis of equity jurisdiction in this case," Justice Brandeis said.

at 3 a. m., Saturday. They left there at 7 a. m., arriving in Santa Ana late Saturday.

At the Waller ranch, they were met by Frank Lloyd and Robert Driskell, Waller ranch employees, who offered use of a team, and it was with the team and wagon that the officers were able to remove the body to Santa Ana.

An inquest over the body was held today, at the Smith and Tutill funeral parlors, and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental drowning.

Funeral services were set for this afternoon, at the Smith and Tutill parlors, with burial in Fairhaven cemetery.

Mrs. Tutt is at the home of friends in Santa Ana.

EX-FIGHTER HELD ON KILLING CHARGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 21—With a net of circumstantial evidence tightening around him, "Eddie" Hanlon, lightweight fighter of two decades ago, was held in the city prison today, awaiting hearing on charges of murdering Walter Noonan, proprietor of a San Francisco market. Noonan, a prominent musician, was stabbed to death in a cafe which Hanlon has conducted since his retirement from the ring.

The killing was the result of a quarrel over famous ring battles of the past. Noonan and a lodge brother entered Hanlon's cafe, early yesterday, and soon became interested in a boxing discussion, which was joined by Hanlon.

A heated discussion arose. Two of the group left, fearing violence. Soon after, police stated, Noonan ran from the cafe, blood streaming from his thigh.

A taxi driver picked him up from where he fell to the sidewalk and rushed him to a hospital, where he died a few moments later.

SANTA ANANS, SNOWBOUND ON BIG BEAR TRAIL SEVEN DAYS, TELL OF STRUGGLE TO SAFETY

Marooned for a week on the City creek route to Big Bear, high up in the San Bernardino mountains, but below the resort itself, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kelsey, Miss Helen Teasley and Joe Ogle, all of Santa Ana, were at home today, none the worse for their experience, but with a story of hardships, and of battling of the elements.

Finding themselves snowed in, at a point about eight miles below Big Bear, they spent almost the entire week at an almost deserted lumber camp, 13 miles below the resort. They were unable to go either up or down the trail.

Reached Big Bear

The Santa Ana party reached Big Bear a week ago yesterday morning. It was snowing lightly. They spent several hours there and started back to Santa Ana Sunday afternoon, a week ago, at 2:30 o'clock. Snow began falling steadily, and at a point eight miles below the resort their car stalled.

The party deserted its machine and all struck out on foot, going down the grade instead of trying to get back to Big Bear. The reason for this was explained by Mrs. Kelsey today, who said that they had learned that the City Creek route was a better road than the road down the other side of the mountain, via Victorville.

After walking down grade four miles, which took them several hours, they came to a lumber camp and saw mill at Fish Camp. The place was deserted. A stove was in the building, but there was no wood, no beds, and no food.

Walk to New Camp

Leaving Mr. and Mrs. Kelsey in the camp, Ogle and Miss Teasley walked for a quarter of a mile further down the grade where they saw a light. They followed it and came to another saw mill. A watchman, Frank Van Camp, was on duty. Ogle explained that his party was lost and asked for shelter. He then returned to the Kelseys and the four remained at the saw mill until Friday.

Monday morning, when food was running short, Ogle and Kelsey started out for Arrow-Bear camp, four miles further down grade, where they obtained provisions and returned to the saw mill. Although the distance was only four miles, it took the two men 11 hours to make the trip.

"This part of the experience was probably the worse we had during the week," Mrs. Kelsey said today. "The men were gone so long, and the trip was indeed, a tedious one," she said.

Monday's Blizzard Terrible

Monday's blizzard was the most terrific of the entire storm. There was rain, snow and sleet, thunder and lightning throughout the day.

Hike Seven Miles

Because of the deepness of the snow, which was soft, and the fear of going snow blind, the party at tempted to take the trail, the four Santa Anans started away from the lumber camp at 11 o'clock Friday night and walked through two feet of snow for a distance of seven miles. This brought them at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, to the Running Springs tavern. The party rested at this point until 7 o'clock and then, with the aid of a road gang that was working down the trail from Running Springs, was able to come down the remaining miles to San Bernardino, which they reached Saturday afternoon.

"We shall always remember the hospitality we received at the Running Springs tavern," Mrs. Kelsey said. "Members of the road gang were especially good to us. They allowed us to ride on their truck, while they walked to the foot of the mountain," she said.

Met Rescue Party

When the party was a short distance down from Running Springs, they met Frank Rowe, Los Angeles, and his father, both of whom are personal friends of Joe Ogle. They had started up the grade to find the missing motorists. Rowe was equipped with provisions.

"It was while we were at Running Springs that we learned of the anxiety held for us by Santa Ana friends and relatives," Mrs. Kelsey said. "The radio at the Springs had told of our plight and when we arrived at the tavern, we were immediately asked 'Are you the lost Santa Ana party?'"

Man Succumbs to Gunshot Wounds

MADERA, Calif., Feb. 21.—Mason Bailey, district attorney of Madera county, today awaited a conference with relatives of Henry Krohn, 58, of Coarse Gold, who died here last night of gunshot wounds, before deciding definitely whether he would have Everett Washington brought back from San Quentin to face murder charges.

Washington, a Nipinavassoe Indian, is serving a sentence in the state penitentiary for assaulting Krohn with intent to murder him. According to the testimony at the Indian's trial, Krohn was shot when he discovered Washington robbing his grocery store.

Bandits Get $9000 In Party Holdup

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Two uninvited "guests," who attended a party at the home of L. Isaman, late last night, and departed with $9000 in jewelry and cash, were being sought by police here today. According to Isaman's report to police, the two bandits entered as refreshments were about to be served and, after lining the host and guests against a wall, departed with the money and jewelry.

NORTHWEST CUT OFF BY FLOODS

windstorm sweeping in out of the Pacific is due to strike the coast from Point Reyes, near San Francisco, northward to the Washington coast, tomorrow. Rain will be general over the entire coastal area tomorrow, it was predicted.

The Siskiyou main line route of the Southern Pacific was completely tied up in Southern Oregon, with five washouts and four landslides. Further difficulties faced working crews today, when tunnel No. 13, near the town of Siskiyou, at the California-Oregon border, caved in at the west portal. The tunnel is one of the road's longest.

Between 15 and 20 earth slides occurred over a 120-mile area during the last three days.

Western Pacific trains were delayed along the Feather river canyon, due to earth slides.

25 LIVES CLAIMED BY STORM IN EAST

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—A storm, that cost approximately 25 lives and caused damage estimated at $5,000,000, passed from the eastern seaboard today, leaving devastated property and wrecked shipping in its wake.

The heaviest loss of life was in the wreck of the coast guard patrol boat No. 233, which was broken up on Cape Cod and its crew of eight drowned. Other deaths were due to exposure, traffic accidents and drownings in the affected district.

The wind, reaching a velocity of more than 70 miles an hour, piled up mountainous waves along the coast from the Delaware breakwater to Nova Scotia. At high tide, the waves were 30 feet high and swept inland, carrying houses out to sea, flooding streets, railroad tracks and homes.

Small Boats Driven Ashore

No large ships were reported in distress, although liners were delayed in making port. Smaller vessels, however, such as schooners and barges, were driven ashore at several points along the coast.

The heaviest property damage was in New Jersey, Long Island and Staten Island, where the water swept far inland at high tide Sunday morning, wrecking houses, piers, concrete jetties, tearing launches and other small craft from their moorings and wrecking them.

Twenty blocks were flooded in Atlantic City and heavy property damage done.

At Long Beach, on Long Island, a dozen bungalows were ripped loose and carried out into the surf. Most of the town was flooded and was cut off from shore points.

1000 Routed From Homes

On Staten Island, more than 1000 persons were driven from their homes when the water reached half a mile inland. Police, firemen and other rescue workers removed many from their marooned homes in rowboats. Heavy damage to small boats, houses, piers and summer resort places was done on Staten Island also.

Even parts of lower Manhattan were flooded. The storm was accompanied by snow and sleet that did heavy damage to communications and slowed up all forms of transportation in the city.

Most of the Jersey coast and parts of Staten and Long Islands were without telephone or electric light service for a time.

TENOR WONT EXERCISE

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Edward Johnson, tenor, whose figure and voice are admired by John McCormack just knows he will never get fat. It's his heritage. He eats what he wishes and doesn't bother about exercise.

It says in the Book that "the rain falls on the just and 'unjust' alike." And while it's raining I have spent a great deal of time figuring, along with my income tax, "just" what class I'm in, and now I have come to the conclusion that it's "just" as good as it was.

parts of the church. The First Baptist church installed the equipment several months ago.

BISHOP'S CRUSADE

MEETINGS PLANNED

Tonight's services at the Church of the Messiah, Protestant Episcopal, will be the first of a series to be held here this week by the Rev. Robert L. Windsor, rector of St. Luke's, Los Angeles, in connection with the bishop's crusade, which is being held throughout the United States.

The services will start at 7:30 o'clock and will last for approximately one hour. Tonight, all members of the Girls' Friendly society will make it a point to be present. Tuesday night, the Altar guild and the church school teachers will attend; Wednesday night,
St. Elizabeth's guild; Thursday night, Ladies' guild; and Friday night, the Woman's auxiliary.
However, the Rev. W. L. H. Benton, rector of the local church, has requested that all members of the congregation attend as many services as possible during the week.

The bishop's crusade was suggested some time ago by Bishop Darst, of the diocese of east Carolina. As a result of his suggestion, a group of 100 bishops and clergyman throughout the United States has been visiting each parish, where a number of days. The crusade started on January 6 and has met with success wherever it has been held, the Rev. Mr. Benton said.

Community singing will accompany all services and on Wednesday night the choir will be present.

RAIL SERVICE WILL RESUME:
EMPLOY BUSESSES

Train service between Los Angeles and San Diego and way points, suspended since the storm last week,
will be resumed tomorrow on regular schedule, according to word received at the Santa Ana offices of the Santa Fe railroad.

According to these advices, trains will operate from Los Angeles to Stuart, a small flag station, located within four miles of Oceanside. At this point passengers will take motor coaches provided by the railroad company for Oceanside, where they will resume their journey by train to San Diego. The automobile transfer between Stuart and Oceanside is made necessary because of the washout at Santa Margarita, where the railroad bridge is out. Likewise passengers from San Diego will leave the train at Oceanside and take the motor coaches to Stuart, where they will board the northbound train. The automobile transfer, involving four miles of travel, will add only a few minutes to the regular train time, it was explained.

Several repair gangs are working at different points along the line, the Santa Ana officials stated, and it is expected to have complete services re-established within a week of ten days.

STUDY CLASS FOR MOTHERS TO MEET

Planning to bring before its members for approval the constitution recently adopted by its executive board, a meeting of the Mothers'
Educational center of the Spurgeon school has been called for Tuesday night. The meeting will be held at the Spurgeon school, at 7:30 o'clock.

The instruction of young mothers in the care of their pre-school age children is going on continuously at the center, the meeting day being Friday, the hours from 2 to 4:30 p. m. Instruction is given free of charge by Dr.
Margaret Baker, of this city, assisted by a public health nurse.
That many mothers are taking advantage of the instruction is shown by the fact that an average of 15 mothers are appearing each Friday.

It is for the purpose of placing the center, which has been functioning for nearly a year, on a more permanent and business-like basis, that the evening meeting of members has been called for a business session. Every person living in Orange county who is interested in furthering the cause of giving young mothers authoritative instruction in the care of preschool age children is welcome to attend the meetings of the center,
it was said.

The officers, who also constitute the executive board, are as follows: President, Mrs. Ray Bond
Phillips; vice president, Mrs.
George Latimer; secretary, Robert
Speed; directors, J. A. Cranston,
Miss Helen Woodworth.

CLAIM SPARROWS
CONSUME LIQUOR

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21—Chalk up another charge against the much-maligned English sparrow.
The birds are confirmed "boozehounds," according to local deputy sheriff's, basing their assertions on the fact that sparrows gather around—and even live in—confiscated stills at the county jail. They sip corn juice, get wonderfully "lit up" and screech in fermented revival on mash remaining in the vats
the officers insist.

Recently a number of liquor trials

Just Like a Boy

Diapiesin is probably the most powerful aid there is when the stomach seems worn out. It enables you to get away with foods that so often cause the utmost misery. Pie, cheese, cream, sausage, seasoned steaks and foods that frighten a dyspeptic even to think of, are as modified as milk to a cooling infant when followed by a Diapiesin.

A host of people are denying themselves half the pleasures of life hunting for patent, prepared foods that don't meet their needs.
For after all it is the state of the stomach secretions that counts. Diapiesin adds to the secretions and actually works on the starches, meats, eggs, cream, etc., and that is what a tired, feeble stomach needs.

piesin at any drug store.—Adv.

GORDON ENTERS RACE FOR CITY COUNCIL POST

F. S. Gordon, 1320 South Broadway, today announced that he had thrown his hat into the ring as a candidate for the council from the first ward, the political division now represented by E. B. Collier, who will not be a candidate for re-election.

Pointing out that the greater area of the ward is in the section south of Santa Ana, Gordon said that it had been many years since the ward has been represented on the council by a man living in the southern portion. Friends, he said, in urging him to become a candidate, stressed this point.

Gordon has been a resident of Santa Ana for 18 years, his first activity here being the ownership of a grocery store, which he conducted for six years. Following the sale of his grocery, Gordon became assistant superintendent of this district for the Southern Counties Gas company, being assistant to S. W. Todd and J. C. Hayden, when they were superintendents.

Gordon's recent activity has been in the real estate business. Pointing out that Gordon is one of the progressive young men of the city, friends say that he has all the qualifications necessary for a position on the council.

Coolidge Wrote Best Speech In Bed, Is Revealed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—President Coolidge wrote in bed the speech which caused the most comment, he has let it be known. It was the one he delivered before the Confederate veterans at Arlington, in 1924, in which he declared for state's rights and pleaded against passing their duties to the federal government.

The way the president came to impart this information was when speaking to a newspaperman he said he was glad to see the latter had recovered from a cold.

"You ought to go to bed when a cold overtakes you," he said. "Can't always do it, and get my work done," the writer replied. "Can't you write your stories in bed?"

There was some snickering at the expense of the young man addressed and the president took the bite off the remarks by relating how he had written his Arlington speech in bed while recovering from a cold.

'King Tut' Wheat May Prove Boon To Agriculture

WILLOWS, Calif., Feb. 21.—"King Tut wheat," so named because it was raised by the cliff dwellers of Arizona some five centuries ago, is being tested in Glenn county and may be developed so as to become of great importance to the grain growing industry of the country, according to growers here.

Seven years ago, archaeologists, working in Arizona, uncovered a sealed receptacle containing 15 grains of wheat. They were pronounced by scientists to be at least 500 years old.

Five of the kernels were brought to this section of the Sacramento valley and planted. All five, it is declared, germinated and produced heavy heads of grain. Since then the replanting process has been continued each year. Last year, six sacks of grain were harvested from the patch, descending from the original five grains.

The most important feature of this newest—or oldest—wheat variety is that the grains are half again as large as average wheat. Quantities of the seed have been distributed to several ranchers of this section and the wheat will be given a thorough test this year.

MYSTERY MAN, FOUND INSANE, WORTH $14,300

Henry Miller, 63, the man of mystery, moods and money, who wandered into a local drug store some months ago and asked to be taken to a hospital, has even more wealth than the considerable sum found upon him at the time, it was made known today.

When a physician was called to the drug store to examine Miller, and he was then removed to the county hospital as a "mental" case, with his antecedents guarded by a very close mouth, hospital attaches were amazed to find a $2100 bank roll on him.

Silent Regarding Affairs
The patient maintained a tight-lipped silence regarding his affairs. He gave his name and a street address in San Diego, which he said was his home. But he betrayed no desire to return home. In fact, he seemed well pleased with his hospital surroundings and responded to all hints that he should depart, by languid approval of conditions as they stood. Miller was paying his way, so it was his own business.

But observation of his case resulted in a hearing before the lunacy commission and Superior Judge James L. Allen, at the hospital, Saturday. Miller was declared insane and was sent to Norwalk.

$13,200 in Liberty Bonds
Meanwhile, investigation of Miller at the San Diego address he had given, led to the discovery that he has $13,200 in Liberty bonds in a San Diego bank. Of the bank roll he brought to Santa Ana, he still has $1100, which was placed on deposit in a local bank.

Steps are being taken to secure appointment of a guardian for Miller, it was announced today by Deputy District Attorney Sam L. Collins. The First National bank, of Santa Ana, may be appointed to act in that capacity, it was said. Miller has no relatives, so far as has been discovered.

Swatter Experts Prepare Attack On Fly Brigade

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21.—There are at least 191,611,000,000,000,000 reasons why California housewives should order a supply of swatters and sticky paper as fly-time approaches.

Assuming that all the progeny lives, that is the number of children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, a happily married couple of house flies can bring into the world during a summer season, according to a state board of health announcement.

It was further estimated that all the descendants, with a new generation every 14 or 15 days, would, if pressed together, occupy a space of more than 14,000,000 cubic feet.

Junior Red Cross Children Receive Gift of Currants

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—Eight hundred cases or 48,000 half-pound boxes of Corinthian currants have been received by "school friends in America" from the children of Greece as a token of their appreciation of work of the Junior Red Cross.

The boxes, the American Red Cross announced, are being distributed to schools in every state in the Union. The Junior organization, now embracing nearly six million American school children, has been sending 100,000 Christmas boxes of games and toys to destitute European children for the last six years, and the Greek gift is said to be an attempt to reciprocate with "a small present."

WOULD REQUIRE STATE OFFICES TO MOVE NORTH

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21.—At least one battle royal is assured for the last session of the state legislature which convenes here February 23.

It will be over the proposal by Senator J. M. Inman, of Sacramento, to compel all state departments to move their main offices back to the state capital.

Behind the movement may be found the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and other civic organizations, which declare they have no objections to branches of state departments in San Francisco and Los Angeles, but they want the main offices in Sacramento.

Efforts now are being made to gain support for the measure among members of the Southern California delegation.

Departments affected by the proposed move include railroad commission, banking department, industrial welfare commission, mining bureau, insurance department, bureau of labor statistics, building and loan commission, fish and game commission, industrial accident commission and immigration and housing commission.

An appropriation of $100,000 for the administration of the state reclamation board during the next biennium, and an appropriation of $150,000 for flood control work are requested in measures introduced by Senator Frank S. Boggs, of Stockton. Several technical changes in the government of reclamation districts also are sought by Boggs.

Motorist Warns Against Sneez Habit at Wheel

ROSEVILLE, Calif., Feb. 21.—When subject to sneezes it's best to leave the car in the garage and walk, advises Tom Dyer, local locomotive engineer.

Tom was doing very nicely along the highway until he was seized with that irresistible impulse. Hastily he pulled forth a handkerchief and sneezed—not once, but five times.

As the echoes of the fifth rolled away on the evening air, his car crashed and came to a dead stop—against another machine. While his auto was being towed in, Tom wondered what would have happened had he been at the throttle of a railroad engine instead of a steering wheel.

Portable timepieces have been in use for more than 400 years.

It's Easier to Run Your Business

with the

L. C. SMITH TYPEWRITER

We should like to point out to you the thirty-one real reasons why you should use the L. C. Smith typewriter. Let us mention some of them:

When writing capitals, the type, not the carriage, shifts.

The decimal tabulator is an inbuilt part of the machine. It enables the operator to write units under units, tens under tens, etc., in columns, and as many columns may be written on a sheet as desired. It is also used for special indentation, for salutations, paragraphs, etc.

Changing ribbons on an L. C. Smith is the simplest thing imaginable.

The line-finder on the L. C. Smith enables the operator to remove and reinsert the paper in its exact former position. It is possible on this machine to place a letter or character in any desired spot on the sheet.

The L. C. Smith is so constructed that the platen, or roll, can be easily and quickly removed and another put in its place. Anyone can do this in a few seconds and without tools. This is especially desirable where more than one character of work is desirable on the machine.

The advantages of using such a machine will be perfectly apparent to any operator who will take the trouble to investigate. The operator who is not thoroughly familiar with this machine and who does not know all the things that can be done on it, is missing an opportunity to be of greater service to her employer.

Dozens of the best business houses in this town are equipped with the L. C. Smith. Next time you see one, ask the owner what he thinks of it.

Bridge Club Members Are Entertained In Owens Home

While "The Miracle" in Los Angeles took away several members of her bridge club, the others enjoyed their favorite game Saturday evening with Miss Kathleen Owens in her home at 126 Owens Drive.

The usual merriment was an accompaniment to the evening's playing, in which Mrs. Owens and Miss Mary Jane Owens joined the club members present, Miss Helen Craemer of Orange, Miss Janey Wilde, Miss Betty Newlands, Miss Peggy King, Mrs. Bruce Ewitzer and Miss Owens.

Of this group, Miss Craemer scored high and received a pair of flower sachets filled with lavender while Miss Wilde was consoled. After the prize presentation, the hostess, assisted by Miss Mary Jane Owens, arranged the card tables with embroidered linens and served fruit salad with toasted cheese sandwiches, coffee, hot chocolate, nuts and sweets.

Part of the evening was given over to plans for a week-end outing at Mt. Lowe, the club members planning to go over next Saturday morning to be guests at Mt. Lowe tavern.

Bridge Club Meets For Friendly Session

When Mrs. Walter Wright and Mrs. H. G. Lyan joined in entertaining the Santa Ana chapter O. E. S. bridge club as an end of the week event, they staged their hospitality at the Wright home, 1022 West Sixth street, which was sunny with golden acacia and fragrant jonquils.

There were several guests who preferred needlework as an afternoon diversion, while six tables were required for the bridge enthusiasts. At the close of the contest, Miss Grace Peterman was presented with a silver vase for having scored high. Mrs. Winnie Dean, holding second high, received a bronze pin tray and Mrs. C. T. Cleland was awarded a hand-embroidered guest towel as consolation for low score.

As the afternoon drew to a close, the hostesses substituted pretty linens for the card table covers and served a delectable dish topped with whipped cream which they called "food for the gods" and coffee.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Triplicate Tea
Another of the delightful "triplicate teas" introduced by the Aid society of the First Christian church, was held late last week in the James Smith home, 1234 South Ross street, with Mrs. Smith and Mrs. C. E. Price, joining in friendly hostess duties.

Flowers were used in brightening the scene, one large basket of carnations being especially beautiful. The guests each brought their needlework to which a succession of amusing stories and friendly chat lent variety. Small Miss Ruth-Mary Rimel gave two of her pretty childish readings.

At the tea hour, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Price served chicken sandwiches with salad molded in heart form, salted almonds and coffee to the guests who included Mrs. E. A. Cox, Mrs. A. W. Rimel and little daughter Ruth-Mary; Mrs. R. H. Byland and son Bennett, Mrs. H. Barr, Mrs. Lawrence Williams, Mrs. C. E. Clem and Mrs. Marcus Lassiter.

The southwest section of the Aid society has been particularly interested in the triplicate teas, and several more will be presented in the course of the next week.

HEAVY BOOTLEGGER
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 21.—A special cell must be devised for Nick Tartaglione, 519-pound bootlegger and father of 17 children. There is none big enough now. The prison fare is not enough, either. A square meal for Nick is five pounds of spaghetti, four lobsters, two chickens and a gallon of wine.

A British army regiment recently returned to England from Constantinople, having been absent for 18 years and have done duty in eight different countries.

Unskilled Labor

No one knows better than the Excelsior Creamery Company the value of labor. We know that the laborer's strength is built most firmly upon the dairy products. Take milk, cream, butter, cheese, buttermilk and ice cream from his table. The ill effects of his ration would show at once. Consequently, we take not a little pride in serving him daily with our products, which are the standard.

Basketball Players Are Dinner Guests

That same spirit of comradeship and friendship which distinguishes their school associations, prevailed Friday night amongst the lads of the junior basketball team of Frances Willard Junior high school, when they were dinner guests of their youthful captain, Delbert Harter, in his home, 1105 West Third street.

The lads were accompanied by their coach, L. W. Archer, and captain, Delbert Harter, the coach, Mr. Archer, and Addison Bowers, Curtis Ault, Hideo Higashi, Lewis McIntyre, Willie Hoselicht and George Lawrence.

After the delicious dinner, served at 6 o'clock by the mother and sister of the host, Mrs. Logan Harter and Miss Elise Harter, the lively youths and their coach enjoyed a theater party to see the inimitable Harold Lloyd in "The Kid Brother."

FELBERG DEFENDS GROVE CONDITIONS

F. H. Felberg, prominent citizen of Garden Grove, and formerly a banker in that town, declares he is one of several Garden Grove residents who took exception to an article appearing in The Register last week, declaring that Garden Grove was under water and cars were marooned on the streets.

Felberg declared that Garden Grove had her share of the water and admitted one of the streets leading into the city was covered with water. However, he said that was due to water backing up from the Pacific Electric tracks, due to lack of culverts.

"We are proud of our drainage system in Garden Grove," said Felberg today, "and I believe that Garden Grove took care of the flood just as good, if not better, than most cities or towns in the county."

No cars were marooned, said Felberg, and Garden Grove was not a "pitiful sight," as the article expressed it.

Recently, due homage has come to be paid to labor. The man with the soiled hands, clear head and strong arms.

Whence great ship canals, continental highways of concrete and steel, food supplies, necessities and luxuries without him! Jostled for decades politically and socially, he now steps up abreast with the best in importance. His vote is the surest. His heart, the sincerest. His faith, the serene. His life, the simplest.

And when the serried hosts start their tread to the downfall of the oppressor, his foot is the most numerous and his bravery equal to the best. His children outrank many who have had superior advantages. One generation from shirt sleeves and the congress hears with interest the voice of the son of the hod carrier.

Welfare of any community needs him more than any other group. He appreciates his opportunity and takes advantage of it more each year.

With special plans for the entertainment of guests yesterday at St. Ann's Inn, there were many special parties present to enjoy the patriotic dinner and program arranged by the management in celebration of Washington's birthday.

Clark completed the little group to which a surprise came with the dessert course when Manager Robert L. Bisby presented a handsome birthday cake, that of Mrs. Deffenbach to the honoree.

Another birthday party was in progress at a nearby table where Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Deffenbach and son Elbert Junior, of Los Angeles, were celebrating a double birthday, that of Mrs. Deffenbach and Master Elbert. A wedding anniversary was another enjoyable event, with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Catlin of Los Angeles, entertaining in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Howlett. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Weymouth of San Pedro were hosts at quite an interesting party which included several easterners here for a California winter. They were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Weymouth of Holland, Maine and Dr. and Mrs. George Verill of Waterville, Maine, while other guests of the San Pedrans were Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Averill, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Averill, San Pedro; the Misses Mabel and Lorraine Averill and Mr. James Fien of Los Angeles.

Birthday Celebrated By Neighbors

When his neighbors learned one day last week that Phillip Blower, of 1720 Poinsettia street, was celebrating his birthday, they held an impromptu party in his honor, with refreshments, games and everything to contribute to a merry evening.

The unexpected guests arrived just as Mr. Blower was on the point of departing by automobile for Chino, but all plans for the trip were called off, and the merry party followed.

Planning the evening with the surprised hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schick, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Jacques, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Benson, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Youel, Mrs. Charles Hurd, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Isherwood and the latter's brother, J. D. Woodbeck, of Kissimmee, Fla.

ORCHESTRA TO BE HEARD IN CLASSIC BILL

With the Parent-Teacher association course, the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, the Santa Ana Boys' chorus, the Santa Ana Municipal band and the Santa Ana Symphony orchestra scheduled for presentations of entertaining programs, music lovers of Santa Ana are anticipating a series of real treats during the spring.

The Santa Ana Symphony orchestra will offer the first of its series of Sunday afternoon sacred concerts the afternoon of February 27, in the Ebell clubhouse. The dates for the other programs are March 13 and 27, and April 10.

The sacred concerts given by this organization at different churches a few months ago were enjoyed by a large number of persons, and because of the interest manifested, the arrangements have been made for the presentation of the four programs at the Ebell clubhouse. A small admission fee will be charged, the purpose of the charge being to provide funds with which to buy music and meet other expenses incident to the operation of the orchestra.

It was pointed out today by a member, that D. C. Clanton receives no compensation for his services in directing the organization and that he is giving his time strictly in the interest of furthering music. The members have been assessing themselves to meet expenses incurred.

Announcing that the programs are purely classical and perfectly appropriate for Sunday, the director said that each program would be featured by numbers by a vocalist, a different singer being presented each Sunday.

The program for Sunday will be as follows:

Overture, "La Dame Blanche" (A. Boieldieu); (a) Hungarian dance, No. 5, (b) Spanish dance, No. 1; "Unfinished Symphony" (F. Schubert); vocal solo; waltz, "Dolores" (E. Waldteufel); grand selection, "Aida" (G. Verdi).

COLLEGE DEBATORS IN CLASH TONIGHT

A special program, consisting of a one-act play and readings, will be given supplementary to the debate between the Santa Ana and the Riverside junior college teams, tonight, at 7:45 o'clock, in the auditorium of the high school, it was announced today by C. C. Stewart, forensics coach.

Unusual interest is said to have been aroused by the debate, as it will conclude the second series of the Southern California clashes and upon its outcome may depend Santa Ana's chances to be in the finals for the Southern California championship. The question is: "Resolved, That We Favor the Present Policy of the United States Toward Russia."

Students of the high school dramatics class, instructed by Ernest Crozier Phillips, are to open the program with a one-act play, "Be Yourself, Albert." Members of the cast are Miss Ruth Anne Walker, DeRoy Dickson and Judson Riley.

The debate will follow. Lon McIntire and Clarence Trickey compose the Santa Ana team, debating the negative.

While the judges vote, the audience will be entertained by readings given by students of the drama class.

Covered Wagon Pioneer Quickly Restored to Health

Was So Weak Could Scarcely Use Arms or Legs. Sacramento Resident a Victim of "Flu," Loses Weight and Vitality. Finds Long-Sought Relief. Strength Restored. Praises Tanlac.

Pioneer blood flows in the veins of Frank Rikert, Box 1035, R. R. 10, Sacramento, Calif., a prominent stockman who trekked over the rough, hazardous trails from Illinois in the early sixties. But even his brown, muscle and splendid health broke under the strain of modern living. "Flu" left its mark and threatened his life.

"I didn't care whether I lived or died, I felt so badly," said Mr. Rikert, "when I began taking Tanlac. My strength had vanished, sapped by the 'flu.' My arms and legs were so weak that they were almost useless. I couldn't even turn over in bed without help, so completely undermined was my strength and vitality."

"One night my wife saw the Tanlac advertisement in the paper and urged me to try it. I bought a bottle and started taking it, and I felt better right off. In a few weeks I was able to do all my work. Not only did my weakness disappear, but I actually gained twenty pounds, and I feel like a new man since."

"Yes, sir, I firmly believe that Tanlac saved my life. Naturally, I'm so enthusiastic about Tanlac I am telling all my friends it's a great medicine and I'll praise it as long as I live."

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Last Memories of a Tenderfoot

This book is a sequel of "The Tenderfoot in New Mexico" and is written by Dorothea Townshend. The first book of this series told of the adventures that befell Townshend when first he came to the United States, 40 years ago. The second book tells of a second visit to the west, 20 years later, and of the changes that had taken place in the two decades.

For example Townshend was a member of one of the wildest communities in New Mexico. Here men courted death in various manners and as a whole were dissolute to an astonishing degree. When he returned to this community on his second visit, he found everywhere strict law and order, which was enforced by the gay young blades of 20 years before.

The story is made up of several articles written by Townshend for magazines here and in England as well as letters written to Mrs. Townshend during his absence in this country. The book is filled with interesting accounts of customs of New Mexico and many pictures of Indian life there have been painted in a realistic manner.

Airmen and Aircraft

"Airmen and Aircraft," by Henry H. Arnold, major in the air service of the U. S. Army, is almost the first volume written as an introduction to the study of aeronautics. It sets forth in simple and non-technical terms certain aspects of aeronautics which are calculated to be of particular interest to those not initiated into the mysteries of flying.

This volume describes in detail for the benefit of prospective pilots, the courses of instruction given in the U. S. Army and navy flying schools, which are the most complete in the land, according to the author.

In addition to non-technical descriptions of modern types of aircraft, including simple explanations of such matters as how an airplane overcomes the force of gravity and the means of control by the pilot, the book contains brief accounts of the cross-country and trans-Atlantic flights. There also is a short recital of the exploits of the internationally known aces of the World war. Some space is devoted to what the airplane will mean to future generations throughout the world.

Old Derby Porcelain

If for no other reason, this book, written by Frank Hurlbutt, should be popular for the beautiful illustrations found in it. The volume deals first with the history of old Derby porcelain and then branches into a more fascinating subject in his discussion of the various types of workmanship found on pieces of old porcelain. A special chapter is devoted to models and figure-makers of old Derby porcelain, as is the case in referring to the flower painters, figure-subject painters, bird and fruit painters and others.

In the book are 60 plates, illustrating different types of this old porcelain. It is of interest to note that most of the illustrations represent pieces of porcelain in the author's private collection.

Human Relations

The authors of this book, Carl C. Taylor and B. F. Brown, have described with great insight, the web of human relations in which the people of today live, according to F. Stuart Chapin, of the University of Minnesota. Chapin continues that all the major activities and services of social groups are outlined in an unusual clarity of detail.

The book is said to present a remarkable fusion of the most generally accepted practical teachings of economics, political science, sociology and ethics. For this reason, the book should be useful for the general reader or for the student who is interested in obtaining a perspective of social problems in their broadest sense.

Strength of Religion as Shown by Science

This book is by Charles E. de M. Sajous, professor of endocrinology in the University of Pennsylvania. Such subjects as the imperative need of demonstrating the actual strength of religion, the main causes of atheism, evolution as proof that man is divine, the divine creative and dynamic medium in nature, the divine universal medium as the author of modern science, science confirms the soundness of religion, and the conscience as the internal voice of the Divine Spirit are discussed in various chapters by the author, who has become familiar with his topic through years of study of such conditions as exist throughout the world.

OFFER COURSES IN LIFESAVING AND SWIMMING

Systematic instruction in swimming and lifesaving will be made a part of the regular course of Y. M. C. A. gymnasium work, beginning next week. R. R. Russick, physical director of the association, announced today.

According to Russick, the Y. M. C. A. physical directors of North America, after years of experiments and study, have developed a remarkably fine system of instruction in aquatics, which promises to supersede all previous work in that line. Each class period, Russick explained, in all classes except those for business men, will for several weeks include 10 minutes devoted to direct instruction in lifesaving, while additional time will be given to instruction in swimming for those who need it.

The approach of summer, with dangers of drowning increased by the vacation season, is a signal for new emphasis on lifesaving in all Y. M. C. A. classes. In this connection, it was added, the instruction given at the Y. M. C. A. will be such as to fit every member of the classes to render assistance whenever it may be needed to persons in distress in the water.

While the familiar lifesaving tests of the Red Cross will be given to anyone who requests them, with the awarding of certificates where they are granted, Russick emphasized that the new system he will introduce is not one of competition, nor will it be made a matter of exhibition, as a rule. It is intended simply to increase the efficiency of swimmers in rendering emergency aid.

STAGE and SCREEN

Erich von Stroheim completed actual shooting of "The Wedding March" several weeks ago.

The production scheduled for the picture was three months. Nearly eight months already have been spent on it and it will require at least another five months to cut it.

There will be some stormy days at the Famous Players-Lasky studio before this picture is released. After its first rough cut, the picture now runs about 60 reels. Twelve reels is just about the limit for any production. That means that many entire sequences will have to be eliminated.

And Von will battle like a tiger before casting out each one. "This scene is absolutely essential," he will shout. And it probably will be—but nevertheless it will find its way to the cutting room floor.

There is just a possibility that out of Stroheim's heated battles with his producers will spring an innovation in pictures. "The Wedding March" may be made into two complete films of 12 reels each. The first production, titled "The Wedding March," would be released about five months before its sequel.

Von Stroheim claims that this can be done. His story has a definite climax right in the middle. If successful, his plan would reap several additional millions at the box office.

Von's greatest trouble has always been overshooting himself. He shoots so much that when it comes time to cut the picture, the real pulse of it has to be taken out in order to meet the required length.

But despite this handicap, he makes great pictures.

Filmland right now is busying itself on the production of stage successes and popular novels—works that had the stamp of public approval before the producers got their hands on them.

The Fox screen version of H. G. Wells' novel, "Marriage," starring Virginia Valli, will be released in a few days.

This picture, by the way, will bear the original title. At first the movie producers, who ordinarily cannot bear to film a novel without "improving" the title, had planned to issue it as "The Wedding Ring," but someone pointed out to them that the title "Marriage" is already well known to the public and has a certain box office value, so they changed their minds.

Allan Durant has the feature role opposite Miss Valli.

The hilarious farce-comedy, "Is Zat So?" which made so much money for its author, James Gleason, on the stage in New York, London and way stations, will be a movie very soon. Work is now under way, with George O'Brien playing the part of the dumb but deserving prize fighter.

"Cradle Snatchers," the play that "packed 'em in" in New York for many months, is also being given a film production. Louise Fazenda, who used to make up as the homeliest girl in America until the producers discovered that her face was too pretty to waste, will have the lead.

The famous old Keystone cops are coming back.

This news, so cheering to fans who followed the movies a decade ago, comes from Mack Sennett himself.

The new cops will be introduced as sons of the old-timers. Andy Clyde replaces Ford Sterling, Barney Hefum plays Chester Conklin's part, and William Armstrong and Tiny Ward replace Charlie Murray and Mack Swain, of the unforgettable eyebrows.

The cops won't be modernized in any way, but will retain the old, outlandish uniforms and helmets. If they produce as side-splitting a brand of humor as their predecessors did, Mr. Sennett is going to make a good deal of money.

After injecting an especially prepared mixture containing gold and silver, a London doctor reports a cure of a severe case of sleeping sickness.

Orange County Park Loses Two Acres of Trees on Southwest Bank of Creek

Hundreds of oaks and sycamores were destroyed, numerous crossings and pieces of road were washed away and a number of mountain cottages were washed away during the storms of last week.

This information is drifting down from the mountains.

Full reports of the damage are not obtainable, and may not be for several days.

That the Trabuco road from Live Oak canyon, near where the old Trabuco schoolhouse stood, was swept away in a dozen places has been learned. Considerable damage was done to the Santiago between Modjeska's and Orange County park.

The county park itself lost at least two acres of fine sycamores along the southwest creek bank. Had it not been for straightening of the channel, done last fall by county authorities, the terrific wash of the swift stream might have torn through the heart of the fine park. As it is, extensive protective work will have to be done to prevent further tearing away of the county's famous beauty spot.

El Toro-Aliso Road Open

The road into Modjeska's, in the upper Santiago, is now open. George Harris, in charge of that section of road, finished repairs and opened the road to traffic.

From Modjeska's down the full length of the Santiago creek, to the point where it enters the Santa Ana river, at Santa Ana, here and there damage has been done. In the mountains, the creek banks have been cut, the channel widened. Rocky areas remain where good earth and fine trees stood.

At one point near Hill's canyon, the main stream left the old channel and cut over to the east, taking away canyon bottom entirely up to a huge sandstone rock, a familiar landmark, that stood beside the road.

NOTED CONDUCTOR OF L. A. PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA

Walter Henry Rothwell, famous conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, which is scheduled to play in the Santa Ana high school auditorium Tuesday, March 29, under the auspices of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce, for the benefit of the Santa Ana Boys' Chorus.

Famous Musician Will Be Seen Here in Concert On March 29

Walter Henry Rothwell, conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, which will come to Santa Ana for a concert, under the auspices of the junior chamber of commerce, Tuesday night, March 29, was born in England and musically educated in Vienna. His mother, an excellent pianist, gave him his first instruction. He made such strides that at the age of nine he entered the Royal Academy of Music, in Vienna, where his piano teachers were Raub, Schenker and Prof. Julius Epstein, while he studied counterpoint and composition and also history of music with Hans Krenn, Robert Fuchs and Anton Bruckner.

Graduating from the Royal Academy at the age of 15 with the highest honors, he continued to study with Julius Epstein and Nepomuk Fuchs, in Vienna, in piano and composition and then went to Munich, where he completed his studies, especially in composition and modern orchestration, with the late Ludwig Thuille and Dr. Max von Schillings. In his seventeenth year he became

COPS FIRE AT MAN BELIEVED STEALING CAR

Alleged Thief Leaves Car After Breaking Wheel; Flees Pursuing Officers

An alleged automobile thief, surprised in the act of stealing a car, escaped from police Saturday night, after an exciting chase on North Birch and West Eighth street, in which several shots were fired, one wheel of the man's car was broken and a wheel on the police machine damaged.

Officers Barnard and Adams, members of the city's "shotgun" squad, observed a suspicious character sitting in an automobile near Fifth and Birch streets, at 8:50 p. m. They circled the block just in time to see the man drive away in the car. He was driving, the officers thought, as though he were not accustomed to the machine.

They gave chase and were able to catch up with him. The man failed to heed an order to stop, so Barnard shot once in the air. The man sped on and reached Eighth street, where he signaled a left turn. Instead, he turned to the right. The sudden change in his plans found him unprepared to handle the machine and the car crashed against a curb, breaking a wheel.

The officers, close behind, applied their brakes and also struck the curb, just in time to see the man running east on Eighth street. Five shots were fired at him, all of which were aimed low, officers said, and none of which took effect.

After a chase of several blocks, the alleged car thief disappeared and a search of more than an hour in the neighborhood failed to reveal any trace of him.

Four spokes in a rear wheel of the wheel of the officers' machine were broken when the car hit the curb.

The automobile which the man abandoned was taken to the police station, where it awaits identification. Police said it is believed to be owned by a man named Robertson, residing in Fullerton.

FLUTE AND RUG TAKEN FROM HOUSE

A $100 flute and a $50 oriental rug were stolen from the home of the Rev. R. Edwards, 818 South Flower street, last night, by thieves who entered the house while members of the family were away from home. A report of the burglary was made at police headquarters last night. The house was entered by use of a pass key on a back door.

MISS MITCHELL BEGINS SECOND 'FAST' EFFORT

Miss Mabel Mitchell, of 2073 Bush street, is destined to become known as the "fasting queen" in the opinion of friends who have been apprised of her intention of starting another fast.

Miss Mabel Mitchell, it will be recalled, broke a two months fast a short time ago, during which time her weight dropped from 201 1-2 to 157 3-4 pounds.

Since breaking her fast, Miss Mitchell has gained approximately 10 pounds. It is her ambition to place her weight at 125 pounds.

And what's more, she believes that she can accomplish this feat.

"I haven't decided just when I will start fasting again but it will be in the near future," Miss Mitchell said today. "I learned a lot about dieting during my recent experience and I believe that I will be able to lose around 40 pounds."

Since publication of Miss Mitchell's feat in newspapers throughout the United States, she has received letters from all sections of the country. The majority of the missives were from women, all interesting in securing details and intimating that they were desirous of losing surplus weight. The Santa Ana woman is answering all communications and says that she is trying to help those with extra pounds to avoid the numerous pitfalls which lie in the path of the faster.

During the fast, Miss Mitchell abstained from all food, contenting herself with a small quantity of orange juice. She was able to continue with her housework during most of the time. The first few days were the most difficult, but after the first week she had no desire for food.

SLOT MACHINE IN SHOP IS LOOTED

Breaking into the C. H. Rossman cigar stand and barber shop, Sycamore street, between Third and Fourth streets, last night, robbers took a slot machine into the rear of the place and looted it, according to a report filed with the police today.

Entrance to the shop was made after a window glass in the rear of the building was shattered. The thieves went out the same way. The slot machine was found in the barber shop when the place was opened for business today.

Prize-Winning Display Is Center of Admiration At San Bernardino

With each day bringing larger crowds to the National Orange show, in San Bernardino, the compliments and expressions of admiration for the Orange county exhibit increase accordingly. Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, in charge of Orange county publicity, was informed today. The county exhibit won the $400 cash prize offered to the winning exhibit in its class, the Associated Chambers of Commerce division. The Santa Monica-Ocean Park exhibit was second and Fontana Third.

The exhibit portrays a symbolic setting of Miss Orange County as "Beauty" herself, reflecting prosperity and happiness in a mirror set in regal splendor. The dome, the canopy, the base, the floor and stairs are carpeted solid with oranges, lemons and grapefruit. A decorative colored light is used as a final on the top of the dome and the center decoration of the frieze between the canopy and the dome is made up of illuminated artificial flowers.

Inside the dome and under the frieze are many lights to give the setting a luminous effect. At the base of the canopy of fruit is a row of standards, each holding a grapefruit and giving a very effective finish at the floor line. Five classic bronze statues stand guard at Beauty's shrine and light the way to all who would come and learn more of the resourcefulness and hospitality Orange county has to offer. Proud of her beauty and richness, Miss Orange County stands before the mirror, her head and right arm moving to and fro. The exhibit covers a floor space of approximately 20 by 20 feet inside the rail and stands about 19 feet high.

Other awards were as follows: Class 44 "E"—Best feature display with mechanical action, entered by chamber of commerce, First, Corona Chamber of Commerce, certificate and $350; second, Redlands Chamber of Commerce, certificate and $300; third, Sacramento Chamber of Commerce, certificate and $200; fourth, Colton Chamber of Commerce, certificate and $100.

Public Schools To Remain Open On February 22

Schools of Orange county, including those of the Santa Ana school district, will be in session tomorrow, Washington's birthday, anniversary, it was announced today at the county superintendent's office.

Although a national holiday, February 22, is not a school holiday in California, inquiries revealed.

It was announced at the offices of the city board of education that the regular school board meeting, scheduled for tomorrow evening, has been postponed until called by the president.

CLOSED ROADS AFFECT HOTEL BUSINESS HERE

With the Los Angeles-San Diego coast highway practically closed to motor traffic as a result of the recent storm, there has followed a sudden slump in motor travel, business, tourist and weekend parties, the extent of which is reflected in the cash registers of hotels, service garages, eating places, gasoline stations and other lines catering to travel business.

Inquiries at St. Ann's Inn, Hotel Rossmore, and other hostleries, reveal an appreciable drop in business, traceable to the present road conditions. A similar slack is reported by service garages and eating places.

While the economic value of Los Angeles-San Diego motor travel is not realized by the average resident of the city, it contributes in no small measure to the prosperity of the community, declared R. L. Bisby, manager of St. Ann's Inn.

In addition to bringing patronage to hotels, cafes, garages, service stations, and other places of business, whose revenues, in turn are distributed over the entire community, such through travel advertises Santa Ana to tourists and newcomers, he concluded.

GIRL IS INJURED IN FALL FROM CAR

A girl, who gave her name as Florence Struelens, 19, of San Diego, was injured slightly when she fell from the running board of an automobile driven by Harold Breeding, 19, Santa Ana high school athlete, residing at 601 South Barton street, Saturday afternoon, a few seconds after she suddenly had hopped on the machine, as Breeding turned from Fourth street into North Main street.

The girl was taken to the Santa Valley hospital. After receiving treatment for cuts and bruises and a sprained ankle, she was discharged. Police later made a search for her, but failed to find the girl.

According to a report filed at the police station by Breeding, the girl suddenly jumped on the running board. Thinking she was a friend of some of the boys who were in the machine with him at the time, he said nothing to her, he reported. The car had gone but a few feet, when she suddenly fell off. Breeding stopped the car and the girl was picked up and taken to the hospital.

SEE MARRIAGES IN SANTA ANA AS FEWER IF BILLS PASSED

Novelty of Having Bans Published Would Quickly Vanish, Clerk's View

SPUR-OF-MOMENT UNIONS ARE HIT

'After Hours' Weddings Would Be No More Here Bill Supporters Claim

By GEORGE HART
Would they or wouldn't they? Meaning, would the lovelorn continue to patronize Santa Ana's altars, if certain legislation now pending before the solons of the state should be enacted.

Would this Gretina Green grow greener or would it fade?

Would Santa Ana's present advantages for the romantic and discreet be viewed longer as advantages, if the brides and grooms were required to publish their matrimonial plans for 10 days before they apply for a license; or if they were forced to wait three or five days after applying before the license was issued, and perhaps face a court battle with anyone who desired to stop the marriage?

These are some of the marriage reforms proposed at the present session of the state legislature. There are others, all designed to prevent hasty and ill-advised marriages, but these relating to the hasty type are chiefly interesting from a local view point, because so many elopements and "quiet" marriages have Santa Ana as their objective.

Opinion seems to be divided as to the probable effect of enactment, so far as Santa Ana's marriage business is concerned. Some believe it would curtail the number of marriages in the county, as most everyone agrees that elopement would be pretty thoroughly eliminated. Others think that such curtailment would be more than offset by the increase in "quiet" marriages, transferred from Los Angeles and other Southern California communities for the purpose of evading the necessity of publishing the bans where the principals are known.

County Clerk J. M. Backs, who issues the licenses in this county, is one of those who think that the proposed legislative reforms might send even more couples to Orange county to wed than before. But not for a few months after such laws are passed, he believes. Backs refers to the proposal that notice of intention to wed shall be published for a certain period before the license is issued, or that applicants must wait three to five days for their license after applying for it.

If such a law was passed, Backs suggests, the Orange county license bureau would be closely watched for some time by the Los Angeles newspapers, because it is already famous as a Gretina Green for Los Angeles couples. But after the novelty wore away this watchfulness would no doubt be relaxed, he reasons. Then the applicants desiring to avoid publicity at home would flock to Santa Ana for their marriage licenses.

Says Interest Would Wane
Like others, however, Backs thinks that spur-of-the-moment weddings would become a thing of the past. If the proposed measures are made into law, the elopers may as well consider that it is "just too bad," the clerk thinks. No more "after hours" weddings as the climax to some wild joyride. Fewer marriages of boys and girls under legal age, who misrepresent their true ages. The delay in issuing licenses, or the requirement that notice be published in advance, would give time for repentance in the former case, and for parental interference in the latter case, Backs points out. There are four bills, bearing on the marriage question, now before the state legislature. Briefly, they are as follows:

1—Assembly bill 198, introduced by Assemblyman W. M. Byrne, Los Angeles engineer, which provides that "before any county clerk shall issue a marriage license, the applicants shall file with the clerk a certificate from a physician duly authorized to practice medicine in this state, made under oath within ten days from the date of filing the same, showing that the persons seeking to enter the marriage relation are free from venereal disease. Any physician who shall knowingly and willfully make any false statements in such certificate shall be guilty of a felony."

2—Assembly bill 297, introduced by Assemblyman Charles H. Deuel, newspaper publisher, of Chico, provides that no marriage license shall be issued until the expiration of three days from the date of application. It also requires that the county clerk shall keep a book with all information now required of applicants, open to public inspection. It prohibits issuance of licenses to parties under the influence of liquor, or drugs, or to imbeciles or insane, and refuses the right for whites to intermarry with negroes, mulattos or mongolians. Male applicants must be 21 years old, and female applicants 18, unless previously married, or in possession of consent of parent or guardian. The clerk may examine the male applicant under oath and record the examination in writing. Latter quoted provisions of the bill are similar to the law as it stands.

3—Assembly bill 662, introduced by Assemblyman George W. Rochester, Los Angeles attorney. This bill is similar to bill 297, and has the further provisions that no license shall be issued unless applicants shall furnish proof that at least ten days prior and not more than 30 days prior to making application, a notice of intention to marry was published in some newspaper of the county where the license is obtained for ten days, or, if no newspaper is published in such county, then by posting one notice on the courthouse door and two other notices in public places.

Woman Introduces Bill

4—Assembly bill 490, introduced by Assemblyman Eleanor Miller. Miss Miller is a teacher of expression at Pasadena. Her bill would require application for license by at least one of the parties five days before the license could be issued, providing that in cases of emergency or extraordinary circumstances, the judge of superior court having probate or juvenile jurisdiction might authorize issuance of the license at any time before expiration of the five days. The bill further requires the clerk to immediately enter applications on his records and post notice of the names and residences of the parties and the date of their application. Any person believing either applicant incompetent to marry may, under this bill, file with the court of probate or juvenile jurisdiction in that county a petition, under oath, setting forth grounds of objections and asking for an order to the applicants to show cause why the license should not be refused. Such order, if issued, must be returnable not later than ten days from the time issued. It must be served forthwith upon the applicants and the county clerk, and shall operate as a stay of issuance until further order of the court. If the objection to the marriage is sustained, the court may order the license refused and assess court costs as it pleases. But if the objection is overruled, the person filing the objection is liable for all costs of proceedings.

Are You Too Thin?

Writer Says Folks Underweight Should Consider Question Seriously

One does not need to be "fat" in order to be healthy—but folks underweight should try to correct their weakness at once!

You do not need to be a Doctor to understand this danger. Common sense and the fact that Life Insurance Companies refuse to sell insurance to folks who are "too thin" furnish convincing daily proofs.

In the opinion of the writer, if you are five or more pounds underweight, you ought to try a few weeks' use of McCoy's Tablets at once. AT THE THEATERS

'RED MILL' OPENS AT WALKER THEATER

Fanchon and Marco Present
Prologue for Latest
Davies Release

By REVIEWER

"The Red Mill," current photoplay at the West Coast-Walker theater, is a pretty romance of old Holland. Adapted from the musical comedy of the same name, the picture features Marion Davies, in the role of a little Dutch girl who, from a kitchen drudge, finally emerges as the bride of the well-to-do Irish hero, played by Owen Moore.

With picturesque windmills, quaint buildings, ice-skating scenes in winter and canals filled with boats in summer, elaborate efforts have been put forth to make the settings for the picture typical of the Netherlands.

"The Red Mill," tragic at times, and again humorous, is a clean photoplay, that may be regarded considerably above the average, particularly for its wholesomeness. As a prologue to the picture, Fanchon and Marco offer "In Dutch," a striking stage presentation, featuring Albert MacGillivray, tenor; Al and Ray Samuels, dancers; and Lucas and Inez, a slow-motion adagio acrobatic team.

To the accompaniment of music from "The Red Mill," the Sunkist Beauties appear in novel dances. With a windmill and garden as a background, the beauties, clad in typical Dutch costumes, do a number in wooden shoes. The girls also are featured in tulip costumes, the petals unfolding gradually, as quaint melodies are played, and in the finale they pose on a gigantic delft platter.

A Mack Bennett comedy completes the bill.

YOST THEATER

One of the funniest farce comedies ever presented on the American stage is the offering of the Bob Alderman Players who present "Don't Wake the Baby" at the Yost theater tonight and tomorrow. This will mark the return of the popular stock players after an absence of three weeks.

"Don't Wake the Baby" is conceded one of the snappiest comedies ever offered a Santa Ana audience. Unlike many farces, "Don't Wake the Baby" carries an interesting plot and there is substantial reason for the abundant fun contained in its three acts.

All the company that won instant approval at their opening last month, will be seen in the cast of "Don't Wake the Baby," including Bob Alderman, Fay Life, Donald Wilson, Eileen Robinson, Cecil Drummond, Zoe Rae, Billy Evans and Frederick Harrington.

ODIVA, SEALS HEAD BROADWAY PROGRAM

Jean Boydell, Dancing Duo
Other Excellent Acts;
Film Interesting

Three vaudeville numbers, direct from the Orpheum circuit, feature the program which began a three-day engagement yesterday at the Yost Broadway theater.

Odiva is a modern mermaid inasmuch as she is perfectly at home under water. This graceful little woman, who first learned aquatic arts among the pearl divers of Somea, is a marvel of versatility and in her exhibition seems to be really amphibious. Her dives are executed with a grace and a beauty of motion that is delightful, her swimming feats a revelation. She is assisted by a school of trained Pacific sea lions in a variety of amusing and astonishing feats.

Jean Boydell, who shared headline honors with Odiva at the Los Angeles Orpheum last week has an excellent personality. Her act "gets over" in good shape. Stewart and Olive present a series of old and new dances that are heartily received.

The feature picture is "Love's Greatest Mistake," in which Evelyn Brent demonstrates clearly her versatility. She is Jane the flighty married sister of the heroine, who is carried away by six feet of handsome brawn, and who engages in the night life with great gusto. But she mistakes frivolity for youth, and quite desperately embarks on a butterfly existence, entirely forgetting her duty to her younger sister, Honey McNeil (Josephine Dunn), who looks up to her for moral support and guidance. She is saved from an elopement and a subsequent ruin of her life through an accidental meeting with her husband at the station where she is waiting with Don Kendall (William Powell) for a train.

Avoid Poorly Balanced Breakfasts

Start the day with Quaker Oats—food that "stands by" you.

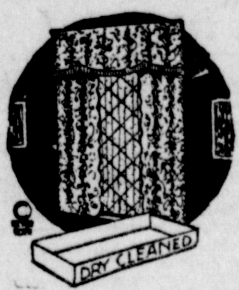

If you feel tired, hungry, "fidgety," hours before lunch, don't jump to the conclusion of poor health. Thousands have unenergetic mornings because they start the day with wrong breakfasts.

To feel right, you must have a well-balanced, complete breakfast ration. At most other meals—lunch and dinner—you get it. But breakfast is a hurried meal, often badly chosen.

Thus Quaker Oats, containing 16% protein, food's great tissue builder, 65% carbohydrate, its great energy element, plus all-important vitamins and the "bulk" that makes laxatives seldom needed, is the dietetic urge of the world today.

Don't deny yourself the natural stimulation this rich food offers you. Get Quaker Oats today. Grocers have two kinds: Quick Quaker, which cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes, and Quaker Oats.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the infection and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

ROTHWELL IN CONCERT HERE ON MARCH 29

ing his extreme youth, he coached many artists of the Royal opera, of Vienna, as well as devoting himself to the preparation of artists for the Bayreuth festivals, and it was while he was rehearsing one of the Wagner operas that the famous impresario, Pollini, of the Hamburg opera, heard him and persuaded him to abandon the concert field for the time being and become conductor at the Hamburg opera under the leadership of the distinguished Gustav Mahler, and it is to Mahler that Rothwell acknowledges a deep debt of gratitude as that great master took an instantaneous interest in the young musician and gave him every detail of the technique of conducting.

Two years later, having become a conductor of skill and artist of unique personality, he left Hamburg to become the first conductor in various opera houses in Germany and Austria. After several years of activity in Germany, he was invited to conduct "Eldorado," "Lohengrin" and "Die Meistersinger" at the Royal opera in Amsterdam, and, after a sensational success, he was appointed general musical director of that institution.

While there he received an offer from Col. Henry W. Savage, which resulted in his first visit to America to conduct the English performances of "Parsifal," when it was given in all of the large cities of this country, in a total of 114 performances, under his own baton. This tour was so successful that he was re-engaged for a similar tour of Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," which had its first presentation in America in English under his baton in Washington. Just before the opera was produced at the Metropolitan opera house during the same season. This success was so great that a second season was made possible.

Gets 5-Year Contract
Upon the completion of this engagement, he accepted a five-year contract to conduct the opera in Frankfurt on Main, in Germany, but, upon receipt of an offer from the St. Paul Symphony association, to conduct their symphonic orchestra, he accepted the release from the Frankfurt operatic conductorship and accepted the St. Paul offer. Rothwell conducted the St. Paul Symphony orchestra for seven years. His contract with this organization had another two years to run when, at the outbreak of the World war, the association found it impossible to raise the necessary guarantee fund and disbanded the orchestra.

During 1915 to 1918 he centered his activities in New York City, where he maintained studio for artist pupils, many of whom since have attained national and international recognition and fame.

During this period of teaching in New York he was not permitted to completely lay aside the baton, for during the years 1917 and 1918 he served as guest conductor of the Cincinnati Symphony orchestra in nine concerts and in Detroit in like capacity with the Detroit Symphony orchestra some 10 times. In the summer of 1919, William Andrews Clark Jr., after long and mature deliberation, decided on the founding of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, and Rothwell was chosen as the director.

SHERIFF RETURNS FROM S. F. MEET

Following a conference on proposed legislation by members of the legislative committee of the Peace Officers' Association of California, held in San Francisco, Saturday, Sheriff Sam Jernigan returned here last night.

Fourteen sheriffs and other members of the association attended the meeting, at which proposed legislation, termed detrimental to law enforcement, was discussed and plans were made to fight its passage in the legislature.

Sheriff Jernigan presided at the afternoon session of the conference and reported on his return today that the work accomplished was satisfactory. He stated that another meeting of the committee, together with a committee of the Sheriff's Association of California, probably would be held within the next several days.

Jernigan intimated that the biggest fight to be waged by the officers of the state would be against the abolishment of capital punishment.

ALLEGED CHECK ARTISTS TAKEN BY S. A. POLICE

Wanted here and in Anaheim, on charges of passing worthless checks, Fred Bailey, 20, and John Bebee, 26, Los Angeles men, were arrested Saturday afternoon, after police had received a tip that the two men had attempted to pass a check at a local clothing store.

An automobile, used by the men to come to Santa Ana, found parked on the street, with another man's hat in it, led to the arrest of a third man in Glendale Saturday night after Santa Ana police had communicated with authorities in Glendale. The third of the trio is R. F. Herzog, 29, who is alleged to have confessed to Officers Howard and Smithwick, who returned him to Santa Ana yesterday morning.

Just how many checks the three men have passed in Orange county probably will not be known until after banking hours today, it was said, when the checks are banked by merchants who received them. Police here said that checks totaling approximately $200 were passed in Anaheim, and that possibly there were several checks passed in Santa Ana.

Bailey and Bebee were arrested by Officers Howard and Perry at 5:30 p. m. Saturday after the officers had received a good description of two men who entered a clothing store on East Fourth street, bought a small article and tendered a check in payment. The merchant was suspicious and refused to cash the check. The merchant called police soon after the men left the store and their arrest followed in a few minutes.

In the machine the men occupied, were found approximately 50 checks, made out in amounts ranging from $16.00 to $100.00. Virtually all of the checks, many of which were signed and endorsed, were cashier checks. Most of the checks were on the First National Bank of Oklahoma City, Okla., but also there was a large number on the Security Savings and Trust Bank, Los Angeles. (The real name of the Los Angeles banking institution is The Security Trust and Savings Bank). Names used by the men were J. C. Sims, George A. Edwards and Thad Wells.

That the trio may have defrauded merchants in Oklahoma City is borne out by the fact that many of the checks on the Oklahoma bank bore old dates, police pointed out. An investigation is being made regarding possible activities in Oklahoma of the men.

Police said today they were of the opinion that as many as a dozen checks were passed in Anaheim but that they would not know for possibly several days. At the time of his arrest, Bailey had a number of $50 cashier checks on his person.

Several cans of eatables, ties, socks and other articles were found in the machine the men occupied. The car is at the police station.

GAME AND FISH ARE PLENTIFUL IN CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 21.—California hunters and fishermen can still find plenty of game and fish in the state and are well paid for their efforts according to the biennial report of the state fish and game commission.

During the last fiscal year accounted for in the report, trappers netted an estimated total of $181,115.13 for 77,724 pelts. The highly-scented but valuable skunk headed the list, with a value of $86,721 for the year's catch.

Lion hunters collected $5630 in bounties for 570 animals killed in the two years and the state expended $2340 more for official lion hunting.

A year's pack of salted, smoked and dried fish was valued at $19,460,432 and during the same period 404,002,066 pounds of fresh fish were caught. The value of the fresh fish was not figured.

But those according to share in these profits should first have permission of the state. From 723 violators of the fish and game laws during the last fiscal year, the state collected $23,409 in fines. Hunting licenses for the year were issued to 231,239 persons and angling licenses to 222,943.

COTTAGES WASHED AWAY BY TORRENTS

In Silverado canyon, according to a report received here from Bob Shaw, fire warden. All bridges leading to Madama Modjeska's home were washed down stream and all roads leading to the actress' home are closed.

In the Trabuco, at least three cabins were taken by the flood. Two of these belonged to Long Beach Men, Mr. Hartman and Mr. Dodge, and one to an Orange man, Mr. Chapman. These cabins were above the forks of the Trabuco, in the Trabuco proper, which suffered a wide wash through the wooded area above the forks. Just what damage was done in Holy Jim canyon, the north fork, was not learned by George Harris, of El Toro, further than that the O'Neill cottage was left standing on a debris island.

Harris made a trip into the Trabuco, Friday, at the request of Long Beach parties who had relatives, a man and his wife, in the Trabuco. The man had been ill. Harris rode the Bell canyon ridge and dropped down into the Trabuco canyon about . . . He found the subjects of his journey alive and with food enough to last them a week or two, and because of the man's illness, Harris advised them to make no attempt to get out.

"These two and one man were the only persons at the forks," said Harris. "Jake Yeager was at his mine, several miles further up, and has not been heard from. This couple at the forks spent a night of absolute terror. The tremendous roar of the water and the pounding of the rocks smashing downstream and the downpour of rain kept them in constant fear, and there was good reason for it. Their cottage was not reached by the torrent."

Forest Supervisor J. E. Elliott, of San Diego, and Forest Ranger J. B. Stephenson, of El Toro, are on a trip of inspection into the Santa Ana mountain canyons. Saturday, they went atop up the Trabuco, wading the stream up to their waists at times.

Returning Saturday night to the Harris ranch in Aliso canyon, they reported the Trabuco road badly washed out. A part of the stream took down the road from the cat-tleguard in the canyon bottom for a mile or more along the Moulis property. The road had been dynamited along the rock wall of the canyon, further up the canyon, was taken out smoothly against the rock wall. The canyon road across from the tin mines property was taken out to the canyon wall, the forest officials told Harris.

W. D. Baker, Santa Ana, visited his cabin at Modjeska's yesterday. He stated that above Modjeska's considerable damage was done. The super stone bridge at Modjeska's was washed out completely. The creek tore out a wide strip of lots and roared above the Baker cabin and one row of peach trees across the road. This is just below the Dr. Tower place. The cabin owned by Elwood Bear of Santa Ana was carried away, with its furniture.

Near the mouth of Harding canyon, at Modjeska's, the residence of Mrs. Virginia Crookson was badly damaged. The big corner dining room, with a cobblestone foundation, was torn out.

Bear Hunting

By GEORGE BRIGGS

(Herewith, The Register presents the story of the most recent hunt by game warden George Briggs and Howard Timmons, Santa Ana sportsmen. The articles will appear daily in this newspaper.)

We got to camp late to find a good hot supper, lots of hot tea and that Timmons had been busy most of the day drying out caribou and moose, a few pieces of which we wanted to bring home. Also he had made a lone hunt for bear but saw nothing.

That night and next morning it stormed considerably and kept us in the tent where the boys cleaned up the heads. At 1 o'clock it cleared and we started for our other camp—the coldest ride I ever had in my life. Howard and the two Indians took it afoot and they set such a fast pace I couldn't begin to keep up so I had to ride. We got in some time after dark, put up the tent and got a good hot supper and soon forgot it was cold.

Always Has Excuse
I still wanted Dick to take Howard out for bear but by one excuse or another he always postponed the hunt. In fact, during the last half of the trip he was most unsatisfactory and I felt several times like sending him back to Callbreath, the outfitter, but somehow we put up with him.

We remained at moose camp that day and the next morning packed and moved to our original first cache where we remained that afternoon and the next day until 3 p. m., as Dick had been asked again to take Howard toward the head of Mosquito creek for bear. But always he had some excuse—simply wouldn't go. However, I felt Dick's one idea was to get back to Telegraph creek and to his family and this I afterwards found to be true.

Indian's Pride Hurt
Our agreement with Frank Callbreath was for eight horses, four packs and four saddle horses, with the understanding the boys should walk, if necessary, when we started with the trophies. This became necessary and I think it hurt Dick's pride as he was something of a Bolshevik. John didn't seem to mind and yet, of the two, he was much the better hunter and companion.

I neglected to mention that the night we quit the moose camp we had the most wonderful display of northern lights I have ever seen, with one exception, and the Indians bore witness that they were the most dazzling they had ever seen. We were loath to quit them and go to bed.

On September 24 we camped at Sheslay and dried out the scalps. Howard had more nerve than I for he broke the ice and took a bath. 'Twas here I got Jack Wrathel's account of the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

RAY ARMSTRONG IS KILLED IN RACE AT ASCOT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Ray Armstrong, San Bernardino racing pilot, died at the General hospital here today from injuries suffered yesterday when his car plunged from the track in the 50-mile race at Ascot speedway and impaled beneath the grandstand.

The driver was well up among the leaders at the time of the accident, when he attempted to round into the straightaway. As the car came into the curve it hurtled through the fence and against the foundations of the bleacher section. Armstrong was thrown clear of the wreckage. He suffered broken bones, internal injuries and abrasions about the body.

An inquest probably will be held today.

Harvey ("Barney") Kloefer, another pilot, received minor burns when his car caught fire as he was leading the race. As the machine burst into flame, Kloefer headed the machine for the infield fence, and turned clear of the blazing machine, that was quickly extinguished by hand extinguishers from spectators' hands parked inside the oval.

H. L. Olive, policeman, received minor cuts and abrasions when Armstrong's car leaped from the track in the death plunge.

KAER'S ASPIRATIONS TURN TO TRACK NOW

RICKARD HOPES DEMPSEY WILL ENTER TOURNEY

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—His plans for future matches in the prosperous heavyweight elimination tournament somewhat disarranged by the outcome of the Jack Delaney-Jim Maloney fight, Tex Rickard will await the result of the Jack Sharkey-Mike McGuire bout March 3 before arranging more contests to find a challenger for Gene Tunney's crown.

Although Rickard and Jack Dempsey have discussed by letter, telegram and telephone the possibility of Dempsey emerging from flint retirement, it is doubtful if the promoter will make a definite offer until either Sharkey or McGuire has been eliminated as complete as Jack Delaney.

This week Knute Hansen will tackle Paolino, the Basque wood chopper, who Rickard believes will be another Firpo as far as gate receipts are concerned. The winner of this bout, should he exhibit sufficient class, could not be disposed of easily. He would be entitled to another chance in the eliminations.

Thus, to balance things, Rickard would like to have Dempsey come back to complete the list of four semi-finalists. Maloney versus Paolino or Hansen, and Dempsey versus McGuire or Sharkey, would about fulfill Rickard's dreams of a promoter's heaven.

If such drawing cards could be arranged it would be possible to hold the elimination final in midsummer, around the Fourth of July, the championship match with Tunney taking place in September.

Made in Santa Ana

Morton Kaer was a valuable track athlete at the University of Southern California long before he ever became a valuable member of the football team and later an all-American halfback.

Kaer was forced to allow his efforts in track to lag while he was gaining greater fame as a halfback. Now young Kaer is eager to surpass his efforts in football by greater performance in his first love, track.

When Kaer entered Southern California in 1923, he showed the makings of a four-letter man. He pitched on the baseball team, was considered a great track man, worked his way from the fourth frosh eleven to the first, and played basketball.

Entered Olympic Tryouts
During the track season of 1924, his freshman year, he turned in such creditable marks in so many different events that he was entered in the Olympic tryouts. He won first in the pentathlon event in the trials, went to Paris, and had the distinction of being the only collegian to place.

Kaer made the football team at Southern California the next year. His play was not brilliant. He next made the basketball team as a forward.

But there, if he had any ambitions for letters, his ambition stopped—the faculty instituted a rule limiting athletes to only two sports.

Chose Football, Track
Kaer chose football and track. In 1925 he led the touchdown makers of the nation with 14 markers. But in track he failed to reach the dizzy heights—he was unable to regain his old stride.

Last fall saw Kaer placed on virtually every all-American selection in the nation. Now he wants to reach the same heights in track. Perhaps he will. At any rate, Coach Dean Cromwell has hopes that Kaer may be able to replace Kenneth Grumbles, intercollegiate and national A. A. U. champion, who has graduated, in the low hurdles, as well as throwing the javelin and broad-jumping.

Missions Begin Spring Training

STOCKTON, Feb. 21.—Spring training of the San Francisco Missions of the Pacific Coast league got under way in earnest here today with arrival of the squad from Byron Hot Springs. Evar Swanson, outfielder; "Ducky" Jones, third baseman; and Ed Bryan were to sign their contracts and begin training today.

SPEEDY CRAFT WILL RACE ON BAY TOMORROW

In the way of a celebration of the passage of the $500,000 bond issue voted by the citizens of Newport Beach and Balboa to improve the entrance of the harbor, the largest speedboat race of the winter series will be staged on Newport bay tomorrow. The affair has been arranged by the Pacific Coast Hydroplane association and will be under the auspices of the Newport Harbor Yacht club.

Six and possibly seven entries have been made, including three of the new hydroplanes built especially for the national championships held at San Diego last December.

Midge II, Del Lord's boat that won the last Newport bay event, is already at Rogers' brothers works on the bay being overhauled. Other boats that will race are Al Macleod's Esmaral III, Fred Thomson's Francis-Marion, Barnson Brothers' General and Janet, Dick Loyne's Smiling Dan, to be driven by Verne Walker and Miss Hollywood. Heats will be run at 12, 1 and 2 o'clock.

Sunday, Feb. 27, outboard motor races for the championship of the Pacific coast, and sailing canoe races will also be staged at Newport Beach.

POLY BASKETBALL SCHEDULE TO BE FINISHED THIS WEEK; MIDGETS MAY YET NAB TITLE

While Coast Preparatory league statisticians mulled over the percentage columns today and endeavored to determine the mathematical champion of the Class C (110-pound) division in basketball, Coach Lynn Crawford held his Santa Ana midgets in readiness to resume training should it be decided the Poly "Little Men" are titleholders.

At the same time, Coach William Foote started his Santa Ana varsity basketball team off on their final week of practice, the locals being scheduled to face the lowly San Diego prep quintette at San Diego Saturday night in the last match of the league schedule. This week's tiffs will conclude the cage season for the Poly institution.

There was still some question today as to the champion of the Class C race although Long Beach already had clinched the varsity title and looked a certain champion in the Class B ranks. The Jackrabbit "C" quintette was unexpectedly bumped off by the Pasadena midgets last Friday, and like Santa Ana, gave up the ghost with the championship in its very grasp.

Whether Alhambra, which won from Santa Ana, or Pasadena, which humiliated both Santa Ana and Long Beach, is the winner of the division was somewhat doubtful today, according to reports from other league centers. The status of the race probably won't be conclusively known until tomorrow when figures from the league's secretary are expected to reach here.

The Santa Ana-San Diego varsity set-to will be a skirmish to settle a desperate encounter for last place in the standings. Victory will save the Poly combination the embarrassment of finishing in the cellar. If San Diego wins, the locals will be tied for the "booby" prize with the Hilltoppers.

COLIMA, HUDKINS TO MEET MARCH 5

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—Bert Colima, the Whittier flash, and Ace Hudkins, the "Nebraska wildcat," buckled down to the training grind today for their 10-round bout at Wrigley field March 5.

The battlers have posted $3,000 apiece to guarantee weighing in at 10 a. m. on the day of the fight at not more than 150 pounds. This sum is the largest amount ever set as a weight forfeit for a bout since the adoption of legalized bating in California.

The "wise ones" predict that this poundage will hamper Colima considerably, as it will not give him over three pounds advantage over Hudkins, who is now a full fledged welterweight.

LOCAL COLLEGE OUT OF TITLE RACE RUNNING

Last sad obsequies were said today over the championship hopes of Santa Ana junior college basketball team which was finally and conclusively eliminated from the Southern California conference race at Riverside Saturday night, losing, 23 to 25, to the Riverside collegians.

Coach Walter Scott's henchmen got away slowly and were never able to catch their opponents who left the court with a 15 to 10 lead at half-time. Only some superlative guarding by Jimmy Smith, Ed Settle and Russell Kokk hindered Riverside from increasing this five-point margin in the second half.

The Santa Ana forwards were unable to get their offensive in motion satisfactorily at any time during the fracas. Faris Edgar, ace of the Santa Ana machine, having a particularly bad night compared to his usual basket-reaching habits. Edgar made but one field goal during the evening.

Labrucherie, forward, contributed nine points, the most by any individual, to the Don total. Wilbur Allee, center, really was the Santa Ana star for his all-around play in the second half kept the local quintette somewhere within shooting distance of the hard-playing Riverside.

Allee dropped four shots within the hoops in the last two periods and in other ways made himself obnoxious to the opposition.

The lineup:

Santa Ana (23): (28) Riverside.

Edgar (5).....F..... (30) Bailey

Labrucherie (9).....F..... (4) Campbell

Allee (8).....C..... (10) Pierce

Kokk (1).....G..... (13) Costa

Smith (1).....G..... (2) Pryor

Substitutions: Santa Ana—Harter for Allee; Roselle for Kokk; Settle for Smith. Riverside—Candey for Costa.

FANDOM WANTS FACTS

Never in the history of baseball will training camp news be more welcome than this year.

The baseball fans have been fed up on scandal as well as the politics of the game. They are eager for a change of diet.

Baseball facts are what fandom craves after a long winter of discontent, filled with many unpleasant things that didn't help the game.

However, baseball enthusiasts are eminently fair. The game because they feel it is bigger than the individual, no matter how great a star he may be.

EXAGGERATED FIGURES

After the scandal had been straightened out, I was hopeful that some real facts would take the place of alleged crookedness. The signing of Ty Cobb and Speaker, the moment they were cleared of the charges of having thrown a ball game, became paramount to the scandal issue.

Having been handed a lot of bunk during the winter, I am inclined to think that few of the fans took the salary question relative to Cobb and Speaker seriously.

Speaker is reported to have received $50,000 for signing a contract with Washington. Cobb was first said to have received $75,000 for putting his signature to a Philadelphia contract. The figure was later changed to $60,000.

HOPE THEY GET IT

Getting $50,000 and $60,000 for playing 154 games of ball is a lot of money.

Personally, I hope both Speaker and Cobb are getting all that and more. They have done much for baseball, have helped put the game over.

Yet the figures do not ring true, when you consider that Cobb received $40,000 a year plus a bonus of $10,000 for managing and playing at Detroit. That was during the days when Cobb was baseball's greatest attraction.

Speaker has admitted that his salary as player and manager for the Cleveland club brought him a similar amount.

I hope it's true, but it hardly seems conceivable that these two stars as mere players, past the peak of their game, should receive as much and more than ever before in their careers.

I am inclined to think that a majority of fandom have read those figures and simply regarded it as more hokum.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

True, neither the management of the Washington or Philadelphia club has made any official statement as to the salaries paid the two big stars. It isn't customary. Possibly the $50,000 and $60,000 figure originated in the fertile brain of some scribe who scented a good story as a result of the padded numerals.

It is in a sense, baseball publicity, but unless it is true, is a form of press agenting that really doesn't help after all the "dirt" of the winter.

Publicity not based on fact never helped any enterprise. The finger of suspicion that has pointed at baseball since the close of the season is going to make the public doubt the authenticity of the Cobb-Speaker figures given out.

Let's have more facts and less fancy.

HOLLYWOOD TO PRACTICE AT SANTA MONICA

Los Angeles Squad Drills After Being Kept Indoor For Almost Full Week

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 21.—King baseball, rejuvenated, returned to his throne in the Southland today, and immediately wielded his scepter over the Los Angeles Angels at Wrigley field and the Hollywood Stars at Santa Monica ball park, to give the opening of the 1927 training season an official royal sendoff.

The Stars made an eleventh hour switch in their playing grounds, as Gilmore park where they were slated to work out is still evidencing the effects of the recent storm. Oscar Vitt, jovial pilot of the Stars, was on the job yesterday, and while not overly optimistic on prospects, has hope abounding on the future of his club.

Has Promising Rookies

Before leaving the north Vitt procured four promising rookies in Malloy, Cantrell, Hollister and Hansen. "Red" Strader, St. Mary's backstop, will be on the job with the Stars soon.

The Angel pitchers and rookies, who have been kept in the clubhouse most of the past week are pepped up for the big test precipitated by the arrival of the infielders and outfielders.

Marty Myers appears to have a lot of flash and may get the first base billet under manager Marty Krug. Ray Jacobs, Ed Hemingway and Gale Staley are the trio competing for the assignment to the keystone sack.

Brazill Has Rivals
Frank Brazill will not find third base unchallenged as Manager Krug and Ray Dwyer both have their bid in for that station. Krug admits that he is creeping up in years, and Dwyer's lack of seasoning appears to be his chief handicap, so Brazill should carry on at the third bag.

Johnny Mitchell is conceded the shortstop without a dissenting murmur in the Seraph stronghold.

Practice at both camps got under way promptly at 10:30 a. m. under leaden skies.

Banning Races Are Postponed

BANNING, Feb. 21.—The American Legion Speedway committee here will meet tonight to decide on a substitute date for the race meeting originally planned as a Washington's birthday feature, but which had to be postponed due to the recent rains that made the oval inaccessible.

The feature event, as planned, will be a 30-lap race with the leading dirt track drivers of the Southland competing for a record purse.

The Beauty of My Teeth

By Edna Wallace Hopper
I am always smiling, so count- less women consider my glistening teeth the chief item in my beauty.

I have consulted on teeth, as on everything else, the greatest experts I could find. They advised me to brush my teeth with Quin- dent twice a day.

Quindent is a recent develop- ment. Some 58 able experts col- laborated on it. It has 15 ingredi- ents and is made to combine all the major helps in one.

It contains cleansers and polishers of the highest order. Then antacids, astringents, iodides and deodorants. They have aimed to combine in Quin- dent all the best helps known to science.

Quindent is not an Edna Wallace Hopper product. It is made by Quin- dent Laboratories, and sold by drug- gists everywhere. But the makers sup- ply me with samples, and I gladly mail a ten-day tube to anyone who asks.

Send the coupon for it. It will bring to you the best tooth paste that men have yet developed. And if it brings to you the glistening teeth it brings to me, you will always be glad you know it.

ST. ANN'S INN IS CONVERTED INTO COLONIAL MANSION TO HONOR "FATHER OF COUNTRY"

Had George Washington chanced to be riding abroad in Sunny California, in 1927, his coach and horses spattered with mud from the swollen streams, what a sigh of relief he would emit, upon reaching the haven of St. Ann's Inn!

Can you picture him, drawing up at the door of that famous hostelry, after a drive that would have been like a fantastic night- mare, terrorized and mystified by strange vehicles with no visible motive force, darting at a mad speed and stunned by signs and sounds that had no meaning to the eyes and ears of 1776, and then suddenly finding accustomed scenes and surroundings, familiar gowns, familiar hospitable and familiar pieces of furniture, all extending him their own peculiar homey wel- come, when he reached the Inn?

Maidens in Pantalots
For that is what would have greeted him yesterday had his spirit been abroad. He would have been assisted from his coach, per- haps by his own postilion, but straightway, he would have been greeted by obsequious attendants, clad in the familiar buff and blue of the correct colonial dress; he would have entered the friendly portals of an old English inn, and within, he would have met the pleasant scene of graceful maidens in the quaint flowered costumes, the lace pantalots, and the flowing curls of his everyday surroundings.

He would have been offered a refreshing drink—if not of apple today, at least of sparkling cold water, from a majolica pitcher, such as he was familiar with from long usage. He would have set his feet on braided and woven rugs which they would have found fam- ilar, even though the soles of his high jack-boots; he would have gazed into the friendly face of a quaint old wooden clock to see that his journey had been made in the appointed time; he would have rested upon a half stiff, half comfortable davenport, and perhaps paused to leaf through a collection of family pictures, by the light of tallow candles burning in old brass candlesticks on a Chippendale table.

For that was the atmosphere yesterday at St. Ann's Inn, in honor of the anniversary of Wash- ington's birth, the one date that every American knows, February 22.

In celebration of Washington's birthday, Manager Robert L. Bisby converted St. Ann's Inn into a picture of colonial days, a picture that was enjoyed by hundreds of diners and guests, from early morning until late evening. In his plans, he had the co-operation of a group of young girls of Julia Lathrop Junior high school aided by Miss Edith Cornell of the fac- ulty, and of a number of generous minded friends who loaned him treasured belongings of their homes to aid in establishing the spirit of that earlier day in American his- tory. The result was a surprise as unique as it was delightful, even to those to whom his plans had been disclosed from the very be- ginning.

Exhibit in lobby
One section of the big lobby was set apart for the loan exhibit, and there was assembled a collection of early Americana that was as educational as it was artistic. Mr. Bisby's mother, Mrs. A. E. Bisby, loaned a number of cherished pos- sessions, including a handsome Paisley shawl which formed a striking tapestry as a background for the pieces of furniture and other relics. A black lace shawl which was draped over one of the colonial tables was also hers, as were numerous bits of china, an interesting old clock, some hand- some silver, and many other arti- cles.

Miss Charlotte Dresser loaned a number of unusually beautiful pieces, all in the most admirable state of preservation. A Chippendale table was especially note- worthy, its delicate yet strong grace of line making it an admir- able example of the furniture of that period. Especially fascinating was a small chest of drawers and women exclaimed with delight over the quaint little "housewife" that one of her ancestors had used.

These were only a few of the things loaned by Miss Dresser, whose collection also included an old brass warming pan, a quaint "foot warmer" and an admirable example of a "Paul Revere" lan- tern.

Equally generous was Mrs. Leon- ard G. Swales from whose heirloom furniture a judicious selection was made—a selection that embraced a folding card table, a davenport, and a number of chairs, reflecting dif- ferent influences and including not only some fine old mahogany, but some equally fine if a few years later, native walnut, graceful and of a fine yet delicate sturdiness.

Such smaller articles as a de- lightful old hand bellows, brass candlesticks, china, and other arti- cles in daily use in the colonial home, especially a hassock which recalled pictures of the wide fire- place which it undoubtedly graced, were among the things she loaned.

"Housewife" Displayed
Two unusually perfect spinning wheels were shown, one the prized possession of Mrs. Charles Kendall, the other of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Clark. Miss Alma Sweet, too, loaned various pieces, including a "housewife" different in construc- tion from that belonging to Miss Dresser. These were only a few of the things of interest to be seen.

There were candle muffers, and silver teapots and India shawls, hand-pieced quilts, children's little rocking chairs, (quaint replicas of those of the grownups) inkwells and sand boxes, the latter to hold the sand which, carefully sprinkled over freshly written letters, dried the excess ink.

It is Manager Bisby's intention to leave the exhibit undisturbed until after the colonial dinner dance tomorrow night, and also, before the various articles are re- turned to their owners, he plans to invite the members of the United States history classes of the high school in to see the display.

It occasioned an unusual degree of interest in yesterday's unending stream of diners and house-guests.

PRESSON GIVES HIS APPROVAL TO NURSE BILL

Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer of Orange county, today voiced his approval of senate bill No. 811, introduced by State Sen- ator H. C. Jones, establishing a bureau of public health nursing with the state board of health.

According to Dr. Presson, the es- tablishment of the proposed bu- reau is desirable for the following reasons: (1) To provide a clear- ing house for the public health nurses employed in California, the estimated number of which is 300; (2) To help establish uniform methods of procedure in public health nursing throughout the state, particularly in dealing with epidemics; (3) To correlate public health nursing activities so as to eliminate conflicts with welfare and other agencies; (4) to estab- lish and maintain educational standards for public health nursing; (5) to provide assistance to health officers and organizations in securing competent nursing ser- vice.

Dr. Presson added that there are many other reasons for the estab- lishment of the proposed bureau, among which is the need of well trained supervising nurses whose services would be particularly val- uable in dealing with the epidemics.

The Value of Human Life at all ages

"Broke"—but Worth $79,100

Dad earns $50 a week. He has just paid the rent, the grocery bill and the milk bill. He says he is "broke, but happy".... In reality, he and his family are worth a small fortune.... This American family represents $79,100 of the nation's wealth.

ALMOST any man will agree that his life is more valuable to himself than the things he owns. Now he can have the comfort of knowing how valuable his life is to others—from a dollars-and-cents standpoint.

Today it is known that the lives of our men, women and children are the nation's greatest asset. The economic value of these lives completely over- shadows the value of all of our material wealth.

Recent computations made by statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show the real economic value of the lives of our people from baby- hood to old age. These figures are based on the average family—with an average income—and take into consideration the average length of life of each member of the family, together with the cost of bringing children into the world, feed- ing them, clothing them, ed- ucating them and bringing them up to a self-supporting basis.

Long lives and short lives—small incomes and big incomes—are reckoned in these calculations. At 40, a man earning $100 a week is rated as having an eco- nomic value of $45,670. At 30, the $50-a-week man rep- resents a value of $31,000. He had a value of $9,333 the day he was born.

—And then come the fig- ures showing the total eco- nomic value of all the men, women and children of the United States—the aston- ding total of 1,500 billion dol- lars ($1,500,000,000,000).

* If you wish to find out how much each member of your family is worth, economically, send for a booklet recently prepared by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. It tells how a person of any age may measure the economic value of his or her life. It will be mailed free.

Perhaps the easiest way to realize this stupendous figure is to compare it with the total value of the entire material wealth of our country.

The latest available government reports show that everything we own—land, buildings, railroads, mines, raw materials, manufactured products, crops, live stock—everything included—was 321 billions.... Our lives are worth nearly five times as much as our property.

America can well be proud of the additional insur- ance placed on the valuable lives of her people in 1926. More than 16 billion dollars ($16,000,000,000) was written and revived during the year by about 300 life insurance companies—making the total amount of life insurance in force approximately 80 billion dol- lars ($80,000,000,000). About one sixth of the grand total is carried by the Metropolitan.

But while the people of this country carry 80 billion dollars of life insurance—or only one-twentieth of the economic value of their lives—they carry more than 160 billions of insurance on prop- erty—more than one-half of its value.

You would not insure a $5,000 house for $250—one twentieth of its value. You insure it adequately. But have you insured yourself adequately? Send for the booklet which tells you what you are worth. Study it. Then decide whether or not you carry enough insurance to protect your family.

America is rapidly gaining a better knowledge of the value of its greatest wealth—human lives.

The America of the fu- ture will better safeguard its wealth and happiness.

THE ROMANCE OF AMERICA: Lewis and Clark

Sketches By Kroesen
Synopsis By Braucher

The harried Colter, flying on the wings of fear, headed for the Jefferson river, six miles away, to seek protection along its wooded shores. He soon distanced all the Indian runners except one. Then, in his head-long flight, Colter burst a blood vessel. Grim as a cornered lion he turned to face his foe. The Indian hurled his spear.

But the red man was tired, too, and the spear fell short. Snatching it from the earth, Colter plunged it into the breast of his enemy.

Hurrying on with an almost superhuman effort, leaving a trail of blood, Colter reached the river and fell into its blessed waters.

Swimming, he came to a beaver dam and took refuge, lying under the water, with only his nose exposed. He remained thus for hours, and when darkness fell, crawled out and resumed his torturing march. A week later he staggered into Lisa's station on the Big Horn and Yellowstone and rejoined his party.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tynmites were much surprised when all of them full realized that they had landed safely on a funny cloud of smoke. They jumped up to their feet, at once. Said Clowny, "I feel like a duncie. I simply cannot stand up, and I think it's all a joke."

Then Scouty loudly added, "Gee, this cloud's as soft as it can be. It's really like we're walking on a monstrous rubber band. We bounce around and round and then we sit right down and bounce again. I'm getting tired of doing this. I wish that I could stand."

The other Tynmites tried their luck. It seemed their little feet got stuck. They couldn't get their balance and 'twas funny, after 'while. Then Coppy shouted, "Just watch me. To stand is easy as can be." But when he tried to do it, he made all the others smile.

Their cloud went drifting through the air. They knew it, but they didn't care. As long as they were having fun, it suited them just great. Once more they all tried standing still, but every time they'd take a spill. And then we Scouty heard a laugh that made him hesitate.

"Say, what was that?" he said, real loud. "That laughter was not from our crowd." The other Tynmites heard it too, and started looking round. "Ah, ha," said Clowny, "Look ahead." And when they did just as he said, a very funny looking man, with smiling face was found.

"Well, who are you?" we Coppy said. The funny man just shook his head, and answered, "I'm the Smoke Man, and you're standing on my cloud. However, don't be frightened here. You really have no cause for fear, and if you stay and visit, it will make me feel real proud."

(The Tynmites play in smoke rings in the next story.)

Queer Quirks of
- NATURE -

SYMBOL OF AMERICA

BY ARTHUR N. PACK
President, American Nature Ass'n.
It was no unwise choice our forefathers made when they selected the eagle as the national emblem of America.

Majestic in flight, noble in repose, this great bird is indeed worthy to stand for those qualities of which Americans are justly proud.

We are by no means the first people to recognize the eagle's grandeur and to name him as a national emblem. The Roman empire made a similar use of an eagle and among the western American Indians he was known as the war bird.

There are those who would deprecate his place as America's emblem, claiming he is cruel, ruthless and ignoble. He kills, of course, what he needs for food, the same as man does, but those who deny his worthiness as our national bird have never seen the golden scimitar of his beak part in regal rage, have never watched the fearless stare of his yellow eyes, have never heard his kingly voice ring over the solitudes of the wilderness.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

You can thank your children for what your neighbors know about you.

The scale is an absolute necessity in the thrifty housewife's kitchen.

The Bald Eagle

known to that part of the world, the ancient Persians carried standards bearing eagles to their wars, and in more modern times the Austrian, German, French and Russian armies used this bird as part of their insignia.

In mythology the eagle held high rank as the favorite bird of Jove.

BEAUTY CHATS

SHAMPOO POWDERS

The best shampoo powder, for a dry shampoo, is powdered orris root. This has one great virtue—it does not cling to the scalp, as a talcum would, nor to the hair. It can be brushed on the hair and quite easily brushed out again. If your brush has long, thick and fairly stiff bristles, the whole operation of cleaning the hair and making it bright and glossy and fluffy again, need take no more than seven minutes.

Buy an ounce or two of powdered orris from the drugstore. Save an old sifter top talcum powder can—you can get them with cheap powder in them at the ten cent stores, then throw away the powder and use the can. Or punch a lot of holes in the cardboard box top with a small, sharp nail and make a sifted top that way. Sprinkle a little on the hair, run it through or shake it through with the fingers, sift on some more and repeat until you have quite a bit of powder over the head. Then brush the hair. Brush in every direction, and about every minute wipe the brush with an old towel to remove the dirty powder. That's the whole secret of making the hair fluffy and glossy after a dry powder shampoo. Obviously you cannot brush the hair clean with a dirty brush. Keep your brush clean! Wipe it free of powder and dirt, and brush the hair vigorously. Wipe the brush again, you can see by the towel how much dirt comes off. In a short time, your hair will look as fresh and pretty as you could wish.

There are other dry shampoo methods. You can take coarse corn meal, just the cheap yellow meal you buy at the grocer's, the cheaper and coarser the better for your purpose. This can be sprinkled through the hair and brushed out; it brushes off easily because it is so coarse and there is very little fine powder to get rid of.

If you hair is very dark, you may be able to get a dark powder. There are such things, but they

This keeps the hair fluffy are hard to find in this country.

Sylvia—Household ammonia will do to mix with the peroxide to discourage the growth of the hair. Mrs. F. De F.—The hair tonic will hold your son's scalp, no matter what is causing the trouble, since it has everything in it to build up and tone the scalp, also to act as an antiseptic.

If he does not get enough help from the tonic, it shows there is some special trouble that needs a scalp specialist to diagnose and treat accordingly. If he is getting bald through the condition he should not spend much more time in experimenting, but had better go to a specialist as soon as he can.

Just Folks

by Edgar A. Guest

THE PIONEER

He walks no easy city street
He sails no chartered sea,
To ways unknown he turns his feet
And seeks what is to be.

What is, forever is his foe
Unto his journey's end,
Who seeks the new may never know
The comfort of a friend.

The men with fixed opinions sneer,
Self-interest guards it own,
Who for the truth would pioneer,
Must make his fight alone.

But little kindness shall he find

And little help he'll win,
The selfish world is not inclined
To let new truth come in.

Yet once the vale of doubt is cleared
He gains undying fame,
The self-same throngs which
Mocked and jeered
All glorify his name.

He is the martyr of the world,
The bravest of us here,—
Who sees men's lips in hatred curled,
Yet dares to pioneer.

DOOR
MATS
Of the Human Variety Need
No Sympathy

By Olive Roberts Barton

It's a queer world! First we scold the women who can't put up with the men and then we scold the men because they can't put up with the women.

But the one woman or the one man whom we frankly ask no one to put up with is the self-made martyr: the person who simply won't, who absolutely refuses to be anything but the family door mat.

Holes in Shoes
There is the woman who puts lace on all the children's petticoats and then shows her husband an empty pocket-book and the holes in her shoes. "I had to miss the club today," she says. "I just couldn't be seen in these. But then after all, I don't expect to dress like other women. It's all right. Don't you worry, dear."

Gets Giblets
She asks for the giblets when there is a chicken on Sunday. Then when the meal is over and everyone has had all he can hold—nothing is left but the bones—she says wistfully, "Was the chicken good, dear?"

At the chorus of protests and from father a "Good Governor! I gave you the giblets because you always say you like them best," she replies with a bright and brave smile. "That's all right, James, don't worry. I just thought there might not be enough to go around. But it makes me happy to see you all enjoy it so."

If she plans to go anywhere in the family flivver, some way she always picks on a day when the battery isn't working or some of the cylinders are not hitting square. "Oh, I'm used to disappointment. I can wait, I guess," she says brightly. "Tomorrow will do."

Super-Efficient
She is always cheerfully in wrong. The worst part of it is she is super-efficient as far as the rest of the family is concerned. People say, "Look at poor Mrs. So-and-So. She is such a good wife and mother, too."

It's all right to talk about dragged-out mothers, but take a second look at some of them, kind friend, and deep down in their eyes you will see the glowing fire of self-imposed martyrdom. They would be martyrs on Mrs. Ford's income—and like it!

HARBOR BONDS VICTORY WILL BE CELEBRATED

Representative men and women of Orange county will meet in Newport Beach Thursday night as a tribute to the community for the progressive spirit evidenced by the almost unanimous voting of $500,000, last Monday, for improvement of the harbor entrance.

The group will gather in the harbor city for the regular monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county and the dinner and business session will be held in the clubhouse of the Newport Harbor Yacht club, beginning at 6:30.

According to George Raymer, secretary, R. C. Hannah, of the highway bulb gardens, will make a 10-minute talk on the bulb industry in Orange county.

"Fifty million dollars worth of bulbs are sold in America each year and now that Uncle Sam has prohibited Holland bulbs from coming into this country it is evident that there will be a rapid development in this industry," Raymer said.

Law H. Wallace, who has been fighting for harbor improvement for 20 years, will be chairman of the meeting. Raymer says that it will be the purpose of the delegates and others attending the meeting to join in rousing activities celebrating the event of the city voting $500,000 bonds to build the east and west jetties.

"What the county of Orange didn't do, the city of Newport Beach will do alone," commented the secretary.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—What a lovely target Capitol Hill is for rash notes!

And yet, how totally neglected! Senators and congressmen seem to be immune from that sort of thing. Anyway, none of them will admit receiving anything sweeter than an occasional letter of thanks from a constituent.

Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, is the handsomest man in congress. If the girls wrote to anyone, it would be Henrik. And he goes along, year in and year out, totally ignored by the mushy element, despite the fact that he is a better movie type than many favorite stars.

The secretary to the best-looking man in congress today was secretary to the homeliest man in congress 25 years ago. The secretary is Henry T. Ronning and the homeliest congressman was Congressman Frank M. Eddy, of Greenwood. Shipstead, Eddy and Ronning all come from Cleveland.

Eddy, who still is living, made no attempt to dodge the distinction. In fact, he gloried in it. He was even homelier than Shipstead is good-looking.

"How homely was Eddy, anyway?" one demands of Ronning.

"Haw-haw-haw!" roars Ronning, as if words failed him.

One hears that no one has since equaled Eddy's total lack of beauty.

Among Eddy's successors have been Andrew J. Volstead and the Rev. O. J. Kvale, incumbent. It should be pointed out here, in case the chance never again arises, that you don't pronounce Kvale's name like "kale," the vegetable, with a "v" in it. The correct pronunciation is "Kwawley," as per the Norwegian.

Pennsylvania, where one hears that graft and corruption figure in primaries and elections, also used to send clergymen to congress, but it was a long time ago. Once upon a time the state of William S. Yare and David A. Reed elected one minister to every four congressmen. Now she has 36 congressmen and not a minister among 'em.

To the very congress come the brothers Muhlenberg, two Pennsylvanians, preachers, and one became the first speaker of the house. The heaven of piety in the Pennsylvania

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

OLD PRODUCING DISTRICT COMES INTO OWN AGAIN

ATWOOD, Feb. 21.—The Richfield district, one of the oldest producing fields in California, having been discovered by the Union Oil company in 1910, when its Chapman No. 1 came in as a 5000-barrel producer, has again come to the front as an important factor in oil production. Relegated to partial obscurity a few years when Santa Fe Springs and Long Beach were at their peak, Richfield has, largely through Union's development, again assumed a prominent place among the basin fields.

In this district the Union Oil company owns and holds under lease 650 acres, a large part of which is proven territory. During the past year the Union has drilled four wells into deeper sand and each is now producing about 500 barrels daily. Their completion proved up approximately 100 acres of company holdings.

Union's production from the Richfield district is now about 6200 barrels a day from 62 wells. This is an average of 700 barrels per well, which is considered a high average, considering that many of the wells have been producing for from six to eight years. On the Chapman lease, where the discovery well was drilled eight years ago, Union has 20 producers, with a gross production exceeding 3200 barrels a day. This is an average of 167 barrels per well, the highest of any lease in the field.

Four wells have been drilled to lower horizons and completed with an average daily production of about 850 barrels each. Union is now receiving a total of 9960 barrels daily from its Stearns property. This production is coming from 29 wells, an average of 343 barrels per well. Union is now drilling two wells on the Stearns property and has staked locations for two others.

Laguna Landmark Menaced by Fire

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 21.—Fire menaced one of the landmarks of Orange county late Saturday, when the woodwork in a room over the kitchen burst into flame as the result of the combustion of soot in the chimney of the old Laguna Beach hotel, which was run for many years by the late Joseph Yoch. The frame structure and the property on which it stands was sold recently to W. L. Hollingsworth and Company, of Los Angeles, for $84,000. The saving of the building was due to the quick work of a bucket brigade and the instantaneous response of the Laguna volunteer fire company.

The kitchen is on the ocean side of the building and a large crowd collected on the board walk, attracted by the blazes and the fire-fighting apparatus.

F. W. Conkey is the present lessee of the hotel.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 21.—Interest in oil in this section may switch from the town lot area in western Huntington Beach to the acreage north and east of town, near the cemetery, it was reported today.

Several leases are reported to have been signed up by the oil companies in the vicinity of the cemetery.

Somers and Horn, Kern county oil operators, have secured a lease on 60 acres of land near the intersection of Main street and Huntington Beach boulevard, according to reports. The lease calls for drilling operations to start before March 9, it is said.

Another oil derrick is scheduled to rise south of the cemetery on Several bond purchasing companies have expressed their willingness to purchase the bonds and little difficulty is expected by the trustees in disposing of the city paper. One company is reported to be no easier to the bond than the city has offered a 5 1/2 per cent interest rate as an inducement.

ORANGE, Feb. 21.—Changes in the directorate of the Olive Heights Citrus association, made at the annual meeting Saturday afternoon, placed E. C. Conger and W. M. Trapp Jr. on the board. These growers replace C. A. Palmer and W. W. Read. Following the annual meeting the board met and elected the following officers: J. D. Thomas, president; Earl M. Crawford, vice president and representative on the Orange County Fruit exchange; and E. C. Conger, second vice president and representative on the Orange County Fumigation board. The First National Bank of Orange was elected treasurer.

To facilitate the election of directors each year, the association voted to alter the by-laws to provide for a nominating committee, which will send lists to each grower at the time the annual report is mailed out each year. Although it was voted to have a nominating committee, the association did not take away the right of members to nominate from the floor.

Because the necessary two-thirds members were not present, the proposal to change the withdrawal date from 10 days before the date of the annual meeting to between November 1 and 10, was not passed. However, those present approved the move unanimously and a petition was started to get the necessary two-thirds signatures to authorize the board to make the change.

The change of date will make the closing dates for withdrawal uniform with all citrus houses in this district," said Dr. J. D. Thomas, president.

LAGUNA CAFE PROPERTY SOLD FOR $85,000

LAGUNA BEACH, Feb. 21.—A profit of $80,000 in 10 years is the record hung up by C. D. Bronner, proprietor of the White House cafe here this week. Bronner purchased the White House cafe property 10 years ago for a consideration of something like $5000. He is reported to have sold the property to R. A. Bird, owner of the Palm cafe at San Juan Capistrano for a consideration of $85,000. A few months ago Bronner received $10,000 for a 20-foot strip of ground which is now a part of the coast highway.

The deal is said to be in escrow in the Laguna Beach bank. The deal is said to have been negotiated by Lolita Perine, of the real estate firm of Peek and Perine.

The price paid for the property is considered a record. The advent of the coast highway through Laguna Beach has caused a phenomenal increase in property values. Bird will make a few improvements in the cafe, according to reports. He will assume the active management of the cafe the latter part of February.

Would You Like to Return to Horse Car Days?

The lady in the picture seems to be in a hurry. Imagine for a moment that you were back in the days of the Horse Car. No telephone. There is illness in the family and she is using the speediest means of transportation to call on the family physician.

Picture the change in conditions today. Your physician is equipped to serve you but a few moments after you call. Whereas in the old days the family physician was only prepared to give attention to the simple diseases, the physician's office of today must, to keep pace with the demands of the public, be completely stocked with not only all of the standard but most of the newest remedies of science.

He is not only prepared from a medical standpoint of knowledge to meet most any emergency, but has the material at hand in the form of medicines and equipment with which to do it.

Nothing in all America has made the advancement that medical science has, yet you pay but slightly more for your physician's service today than you did in the days of old horse drawn cars.

There is no service rendered to the average family that is so cheaply given as medical attention. In direct contrast with this, is the fact that many people give their bills for medical attention their least consideration.

Pay your doctor promptly not merely for the sake of keeping your credit established but because it is a matter of common fairness. The chances are that your physician is too busy most of the time with medical problems to further aid humanity to give his attention as he admittedly should—to the business end of making collections.

Do not wait for a statement. If you do not pay cash, call your doctor on the first of the month, inquire the amount due and send him a check.
